Relief Clients Plan Own Probe In Cleveland

MAP MOVE AS SOLON BLASTS DAVEY CHARGE

Seneca Lawmaker Declares Extravagance Charge Made by Governor 'False.'

TESTIMONY CONTINUES

More Reliefers Testify While Needy Resume 'Sit-Down' in Council Chamber.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — Determined relief clients, encamped in the city council chamber today, mapped a municipal welfare investigation paralleling another being conducted by state legislators.

State President Arnold Johnson of the Workers' Alliance, which organized the city hall sit-down protest of approximately 150 indigents, said others among the city's 87,000 direct relief dependents would be invited to "testify" at council room "hearings."

"The results will be compiled and sent to Columbus," Johnson said, "to give the other legislators the picture."

Hits Davey Charge.

Willis I. Cory (R-Seneca), member of the state house of representatives relief investigating committee, labelled as false last night an assertion from Gov. Martin L. Davey that Cleveland was extravagant in relief administration.

Rep. Kenneth M. Petri (D-Crawford) asked Mayor Harold H. Burton at a public hearing whether the governor's statement was "true or false."

"I never say anything about the truth of Gov. Davey's statements," Burton answered, whereupon Cory said:

"I'd say it's false. I've been over this city and I'd say it's false."

Rep. Carl Wintzer (D-Auglaize) accused the Burton administration of relief neglect.

"We've gone over the books," Wintzer said, "and we find increases in your general fund expenditures over the last few years. I think the council should have appropriated more for relief."

Blow to Finances.

Burton said that carrying the entire relief load for the last eight

He'll Play Role Of 'Solomon'

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Board of Health, faced today the problem of settling a parentage dispute between Luis Ersing, 24, and Lansarin Timoteo, 26, each of whom claims to be the father of the same set of twins.

The men have agreed to abide by Dr. Bundesen's decision. Each wants the twins. Each says he loves the twins' mother, a 36-year-old widow who has had 12 other children.

Bundesen took blood tests in an effort to establish paternity but they were inconclusive.

FIGHT FLOODS AS HEAVY RAINS DRENCH STATE

Northern, Eastern Sections Hardest Hit; City Escapes Brunt of Storms.

A prediction of more rain for tonight and Saturday spurred efforts of flood relief workers in northern and eastern Ohio who worked today to repair damage that is expected to total well over $1,000,000.

The Richland county area escaped the full force of storms which brought cloudbursts to the Sandusky, Medina and Akron sections yesterday and the worst flood in 11 years to the mining region southeast of Columbus.

Rainfall here yesterday was .33 of an inch which brought the total for the past three days to 1.15 inches. Observer Otto Sprunger reported.

More Rains Forecast.

The U. S. weather bureau predicted "fairly severe rains" for flood-swept northern Ohio today and Saturday, after nearly four inches had been recorded in Sandusky in the past 24 hours. Underpasses in the city were flooded with from six to eight feet of water, while 11 bridges were washed out in the Akron district. Damage in Summit and Medina counties was estimated at nearly $500,000, including a $100,000 loss to farm crops.

Two trucks and an automobile were partly covered with mud in a landslide from a railroad embankment on route 5 east of Kent. No one was injured. Two persons were drowned in the state, however, one in Columbus and the other in Cincinnati. Neither was the result of floods.

Following a cloudburst last night at Murray City, near Logan, water ran four feet deep in some of the streets. Damage was set at several thousands of dollars.

Cooler weather tomorrow is due to bring relief to the entire state from the high humidity of the last few days.

Mansfielders mopped their brows yesterday when the mercury went to 84 degrees and the air virtually dripped with moisture. It was 76 at noon today. Cincinnati had 86 degrees for the hottest day of the year.

TENSION GROWS AMONG CZECHS

Clashes Precede Elections to Test Minority Power.

PRAGUE — (U.P.) — Tension increased throughout Czechoslovakia today as Czechs and members of minority groups worked to poll their maximum strength Sunday in the first series of about 11,000 municipal elections.

Two clashes which threatened to become fights between thousands of Czechs and members of the "Sudeten" German minority were averted last night only by prompt action of police.

The elections, to be held May 22, May 29 and June 12 are expected to show the strength of various minority groups as against the Czechs.

MAYOR GIVES CHALLENGE ON AIR FUTURE

Are We Going to Let Airport 'Go to Seed,' He Asks as First Air Mail Leaves.

1,200 ATTEND CEREMONY

Mailman Flies 9,000 Letters to Cleveland in 39 Minutes, Climaxing Celebration.

Mansfield heard a challenge yesterday—a challenge as to the future development of its airport as the first mail in history was flown from the city in commemoration of the 20th anniversary of the inauguration of the air mail service.

The challenge was sounded by Mayor Claude M. Hunter in an address to 1,200 who gathered at the flying field to see the mail off.

Cites Partial Development.

"We have the grounds, we have the location and we have expended much time and effort and thousands of dollars," Mayor Hunter said in pointing to the partial development of the airport site.

"The question now is: what are we going to do? Are we going to let it go by default or are we going to carry on?

"Geographically we are located almost directly on the air line between Cleveland and Columbus and are directly on the route between Pittsburgh and Chicago. So here is a challenge to us all."

Tells of Struggle.

Prior to that the mayor told of the early struggle of civic-minded Mansfielders and of the Chamber of Commerce to obtain an airport site, of the purchase of the 189-acre plot 10 years ago by the city at a cost of more than $50,000, and its partial development.

Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce spoke briefly and introduced Postmaster Herman E. Homberger who turned the mail pouches over to Henry E. Cunning, a mail carrier already known as the "flying postman." Included in the cargo was mail from Shelby, Plymouth, Shiloh, Lexington and Bellville.

Before the ceremonies at the field, a group of postmasters from the various Richland county villages met at the Mansfield post office and were escorted to the field by motorcycle police and sheriff's deputies.

It was shortly after 3 p. m. that the pilot Cunning, who had been

'Flying Postman' Delivers the Mail – By Air

From Mansfield to Cleveland in 39 minutes—that's the way the air mail was flown yesterday. These two pictures show how it was done. At the top, Postman-Pilot Henry E. Cunning loads the air mail into his speedy little Aeronca monoplane at Mansfield airport. Postmaster Herman E. Homberger is shown at the right. Bottom picture shows Cunning at Cleveland airport, delivering the 9,000 pieces of mail he carried on the city's first air mail flight to William Robertson (center) department of air commerce inspector, and (right) Cleveland Postmaster Michael O'Donnell. Pilot Cunning was the seventh of 20 fliers making special pick-ups at 53 cities to land at Cleveland The flights climaxed the observance of the 20th anniversary of the Air mail service.

'Flying Postman' Steals Show as He Brings In Mail

Camera Fans, Autograph Seekers Surround Cunning After Ship Makes Perfect Landing at Cleveland.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

Mansfield's "flying postman," Henry E. Cunning, stole the show during the half hour he was at the Cleveland airport yesterday after flying the first air mail from this city.

He was the idol of the postal employes, camera fans and autograph seekers after he set his trim low-wing monoplane down in a dive landing on the 70-acre asphalt apron.

And the crowd wasn't the only one that got a thrill—I received mine too when I felt the bottom drop out from under us as we slid in over the giant American Airways hangar for a perfect three-point landing.

Zooms in to Land.

It all happened when the plane got caught in one of the down drafts caused by the heat rising from the asphalt — but Cunning with a quick thrust of the throttle and yank on the stick zoomed in instead of gliding to a landing as had been planned.

From then on things began to

DEATH AFLOAT

Army Ammunition Slips Off Barge, Menaces Shipping.

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)— Several hundred cases of U. S. army ammunition, lost overboard when a barge suddenly listed, menaced shipping in northern San Francisco bay today.

All crew members escaped when the motor barge Hermine Blum tilted and slid part of its cargo of 2,000 cases of small arms ammunition into the bay yesterday.

Col. L. A. Nickerson, commandant at Benicia arsenal, warned:

"Should one of the cases become entangled in the propeller of a ship the results might be disastrous."

The cases will float since they are hermetically sealed. Navy searchers found only one case.

Revives Mansfield Legend of Poor Immigrant Who Rose to Governorship

Biography of John Peter Altgelt Tells Story of Farm Boy's Success.

The almost forgotten Mansfield legend of the poor immigrant boy who rose from a farm slavey to become governor of Illinois and creator of the "free silver issue," is revived with the publication today of "Eagle Forgotten," biography of John Peter Altgelt

The biography, published by Bobbs-Merrill, was written by Harry Barnard, and gives an analysis of the character and career of the man whose boyhood was spent on a farm near Mansfield on the Little Washington road. His story is all but forgotten here, except by a few "old timers" and a few distant relatives, among them W. B. Ford and Mrs. Kitty Ford Neumann.

The book, a brilliant piece of analytical biography, tells the story of Altgelt from the time his parents, German peasants, left Nassau, Germany, for America with their three-month-old son, John Peter, until his death in Chicago in 1902. Through his own efforts he became a Chicago millionaire and the greatest champion of the under-dog of his time.

The book credits him with "making" such men as Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan. It was Altgelt who formed the Democratic free silver platform in 1895 and made "the vehement young man from Nebraska" the party's candidate for president. It was something of a coincidence that the man who first espoused the cause of

FUND $10,179 SHY OF GOAL

$43,771 Raised, Workers Told at Luncheon; Extend Drive to Reach Objective.

Pledged Today	$ 4,312
Total to Date	$43,771
Still Needed	$10,179

Community Fund workers, seeking to raise $53,950 for operation of the Fund's nine agencies during 1939, went into extra innings today.

They reported contributions of $4,312 at their luncheon meeting in the First Methodist church this noon, and still needed $10,179 to reach their goal Contributions climbed to a total of $43,771.

Urged on by Mayor Claude M. Hunter, who employed General U. S. Grant's famous about "fighting it out along this line if it takes all summer," leaders of the campaign announced they would keep on working until the goal has been reached.

Mayor Hunter was one of the three speakers at today's luncheon. The others were Arthur S. Hughes, general chairman of the campaign, and Atty. William F. Black.

Hughes told the workers that although there was much unemployment in Mansfield, the city's banks had more money on deposit in savings accounts than at any time in their history, and urged solicitors to concentrate on the

Interest Lags In Primary, 5 File Petitions

Deadline Only 3 Weeks Away, 200 Expected To Be Candidates.

With only five nominating petitions filed out of a possible 200 or more, the Richland county board of elections had a busy three weeks in prospect today before the final filing date, June 10.

Lack of interest in the approaching August primary is shown in the small number of petitions that have come to the board, political observers said.

Despite the apparently dormant campaign, observers pointed out that precinct committeemen for both parties are to be elected in August.

Each party will name a central committee member in every one of the county's 90 precincts to formulate the platform issues for the next two years.

Name 2 On Central Body.

In addition, both Democrats and Republicans will choose two members of the state central committee from the 17th congressional district, which includes Richland county.

County G. O. P. leaders are working to avert a rift in party ranks as the outgrowth of two Mansfielders announcing for the same state committee post in the district. R. B. Gardner, Mansfield automobile dealer, already has filed for the nomination, while it is believed certain that Earl A. McFarland, former mayor, will be in the race.

McFarland has the endorsement of the county Republican central committee, which would have preferred that Gardner wait until a future campaign.

It was learned from reliable sources that both McFarland and Gardner would present central committee slates of their own in a move to obtain party support.

Three county offices—one commissioner, auditor and representative to the general assembly—will be voted on in August. Democrats expect no trouble in renominating the incumbents, Commissioner C. L. Mitchell, Auditor Norman L. Wolfe and Representative Ralph T. Lutz.

Republicans have candidates in the field for commissioner and representative, but Wolfe is expected to have the auditor's candidacy to himself. Harry H. Maxwell, Lexington, has filed for the Republican nomination for representative, while John C. Friday, Springfield township Republican, has announced for commissioner, an office he held for one term.

8,500 RUBBER WORKERS IDLE AT GOODRICH

Furlough of 25 Electricians Leads to Walk-out; Pickets Patrol Entrances.

CONFERENCES PLANNED

Plants to Stay Closed During Controversy, Company Says Employes Leave.

BULLETIN

AKRON —(U.P.)— L. L. Callahan, president of the Goodrich local, and his executive committee, conferred today with Vice President T. G. Graham and Superintendent E. H. Barder of the tire division of the B. F. Goodrich company, closed by a strike.

(By United Press)

AKRON — A spontaneous strike closed six plants of the B. F. Goodrich company, rubber manufacturers, here today, affecting 8,500 workers.

The strike was called suddenly by union workers in the main plant during the 6 p. m.-midnight shift last night.

Electricians, contending seniority rules were violated by the impending furlough of 25 men in their department, pulled switches controlling all departments but a few mechancial goods sections.

Leave at Midnight.

Workers on the 6 p. m. shift walked out of the plant just before midnight. They met incoming workers on the midnight shift and told them to remain out of the plant.

Impromptu picket lines were established at the gates of the main plants. The Miller plant, which operated all night, was closed by pickets at 6 a. m.

L. L. Callahan, president of the Goodrich local of the United Rubber Workers, said he and his executive committee would confer with T. G. Graham, Goodrich vice president, and other officials today. A meeting of the local union was called for 4 p. m.

"Since we've been forced to go the limit, we'll have to sit down and negotiate some sort of signed agreement before this strike can be settled," Callahan said.

"This thing really started last July when the company started to lay off 5,000 men and move 5,000 jobs out of Akron. It's an accumulation of grievances that caused it, but the immediate cause of the strike was the furlough of 25 electricians.

"The company planned to lay

'Other Man' Sued For $20,000 In Alienation Case

A Mansfield "eternal triangle" case had developed into a $20,000 alienation suit today with the filing of an action for damages against "the other man" in common pleas court.

Accusing William W. Doolittle of near Mansfield, the third party in the triangle, of inducing his wife "to neglect her home and children and become dissatisfied with her married life," Gleason Whisler, 141 North Franklin avenue, named Doolittle defendant in his court action.

Whisler contends that his wife, Beatrice, has been unlawfully and maliciously induced "by Doolittle to spend most of her evenings with him and that as a result she insists that he (Whisler) bring a divorce action against her.

Whisler's petition states that Doolittle has been carrying on his alienation campaign since June, 1936, and that "during the past four weeks Mrs. Whisler has been absent from her home almost every night."

As a result of the couple's behavior, Whisler says he has "suffered humiliation and has been deprived of the affection and companionship" of his wife.

The Whislers were married in 1923 and have two sons, 11 and 14 years old.

Whisler is represented in his action by Attys. R. W. Stephenson and A. S. Beach.

ADMIRAL TO GO AS FAST AS HE CAN IN WHAT MAY BE FINAL WORKOUT.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK — (NS) — War Admiral, the horse that the entire east seems to think is a kick in the bosom, or under-carriage, for the $100,000 match race ten days hence, is going for a last fast "work" at the match distance of a mile and a quarter tomorrow morning.

That's one thing the writer, having disguised himself as a wild cat in the feed box was able to learn during a pre-race reconnaissance of the scene down at Belmont yesterday. Another was that Charley Kurtsinger, the jockey, has been told to be there, ready to ride the horse and to let him run as fast as he wants, probably 2:03 or better. A third, that in the opinion of the clockers—notably that of the top hand of the profession, George Reade—the Admiral is "much closer to his race" in training right now than is Seabiscuit, handicap star of the C. S Howard stable.

The latter, as a mater of fact isn't close at all. They say he'll need at least three fast works in the next week if he's to come up to the race absolutely "right" They also say that it isn't a difference in training methods by George Conway and Tom Smith

They simply have two horses as temperamentally different as, say Big Bill Tilden and Zbyszko—the Biscuit being sturdy, honest and dependable and the Admiral as nervous as a bloke with a brandy hangover.

They're Bringing Him Up Fast.

THERE'S only one thing to do with a horse like that. They're bringing him up to his best as soon as possible and, after that, the trick will be to keep him there. You'll see very little of War Admiral at Belmont, except for racing starts and short gallops, if tomorrow's trial is at all satisfying.

And there's not reason to expect that it won't be A week ago, they galloped him under restraint for the full distance on the main track in 2.07 1-5, indicating that he was just about where Conway wanted him at that time At this time, he'll want him down around 2.03 and if that's the way it's going to be the rest of the program ought to be simple enough

Far simpler, in fact, than that of "timing" a horse up to the day of the race, as I understand Smith not only intends to do with the Biscuit, but must.

So far, he's been doing a lot of galloping at a mile and a half, showing that the coast stagle intends to have the horse ready to make most of his run in the stretch, where the real race is expected to develop—if there ever is to be a real race It's surprising how many race people around here don't think there will be, the idea being that the Admiral not only has plenty of early fetlock but always has had enough late lung-courage to beat off any stretch challenge, the point is that there hasn't been many Men, Horses Have A Lot In Common.

PERSONALLY, I probably wouldn't know a horse, unless he was between shafts but horses and men have a lot in common when the pinch is on, which reminds me of Tom Gibbons the old prize fighter They used to say, with gusto that he's never been on the floor which certainly sounded all right Then one night the floor lifted up and landed right in his face a thing that even to the best has happened will happen and must The only trouble is that he stayed there

Mehock's Smile Turns to Frown

Cuemen Hosts To Mt. Vernon On Saturday

Stoner to Send Irvin or Brubach to Mound.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Qualifying heats in ten events, designed to separate the wheat from the chaff, occupied the midwest's topnotch athletes today as they slashed the field for Saturday's finals in the 38th annual Western conference track and field meet at Ohio stadium.

With the cinder oval already water-logged by recent rains, and more downpours promised for late today, indications were that the trial heat performances would fall short of record-breaking calibre

Weather handicaps, however, were not slated to cut the odds on Michigan's top-heavy chance to retain the championship, the Wolverines being tipped to take the laurels for the 16th time by close to a 20-point margin.

Wisconsin Indiana, Ohio and Iowa were favored to battle it out for runner-up honors, with Illinois, Purdue Minnesota Northwestern and Chicago finishing in that order back of the big five.

Among the meet's features was a mile exhibition by Glenn Cunningham, the great Kansas star, who will be paced through the eight furlongs by Charley Beetham, former Buckeye luminary, and several Ohio freshmen, running in relays.

Big 10 Stages Trials Today

Michigan Heavy Favorite to Retain Crown.

Forced to delay the opening of their series of Saturday games last week because of rain, the Rex Billiards will attempt to get the schedule under way tomorrow when they meet the Mt. Vernon Merchants at 2:30 p. m. at League park.

In the Merchants, Manager John Stoner's team meets one of the stronger City league teams of Mt. Vernon.

Stoner announced today that either Irvin or Brubach, a couple of promising Mansfield twirlers, will get the nod to take over the hurling duties The rest of the lineup will be unchanged

Sunday the Cuemen will go to Johnsville to play the second game of a double-header The colored Elks of Mansfield will meet Johnsville in the first game at the Pines field.

Canzols Play Shiloh Sunday

The Ira D. Ling Canzols will be seeking their first victory of the season when they trek to Shiloh to tackle the Shiloh Lions in a tilt at 3 p m. Sunday.

A new player, Leslie Small, will make his debut with the Canzois Sunday. A former Crestline sandlot player, Small will probably be stationed at third base. Gil Weigand will toe the mound for the Mansfielders with Smollen behind the plate Hammon will twirl for Shiloh.

Heel Injury May Handicap Linta in District Affair in Fremont Saturday.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

THINGS are breaking badly for smilin' (now frowning) Harry Mehock, who figured his run of ill luck was over for one year.

But the current track and field season continues to resemble a nightmare for the Mansfield high school coach, and he is not so sure that his luck will change for the district championships to be run off in Fremont Saturday.

Things Looked Up.

Despite a dual meet season that produced only one victory, Harry was just beginning to see a kindly light shine on the Mansfield hopes in the district eliminations.

His squad of thin-clads improved with every appearance, and he thought it had reached its peak for the Fremont carnival after pushing Akron Garfield to the limit in a dual meet.

But Harry didn't consider the injury jinx that has hounded the Red Streaks all season

Now it develops that Mehock's major championship hope is not a certain participant Saturday

John Linta, whose excursions over the pole vault bar have set a number of records this season, is nursing an injured heel.

Linta suffered the injury in a recent workout when he hit the pole box after dropping from a height of 13 feet

The injury has not responded to treatment, and even if Linta does participate Saturday it is doubtful whether he will be able to overcome the handicap

Linto was not only Mehock's hope in the pole vault, but also the low hurdles.

Other developments that have added to Mehock's worries are a cold contracted by Daryl Heiser, another barrier skipper, and a stiff neck that is hindering Rich Nagle in his preparations for participation in the field events.

Heiser and Nagle are expected to be in uniform Saturday, but how successful they will be depends on their condition.

Outside of this trio, the squad is in pretty fair shape for the district affair according to Mehock

Need Full Strength

However, Mehock is quite emphatic in his contention that the Red Streaks will need Linta Heiser and Nagle at their best to make the heralded triangular battle of Mansfield, Sandusky and Fremont a reality Saturday.

Sandusky is an odds-on favorite to repeat in the district competition, but Mansfield and Fremont are regarded as serious contenders

Immortal Casey Singles This Time

BALTIMORE—(AP)—He waited half a century to do it, but the hero of "Casey at the Bat," renowned for fanning with the bases loaded, has proved he doesn't always strike out.

Casey was at the bat again last night. "Rajah" Hornsby was pitching. Two thousand fans were watching—and Casey missed the first two pitches. It looked as if the immortal Casey might fan again. "Yea, Casey!" yelled the crowd as Hornsby served up another one. Casey swung—and singled to left! Thus did the pride of Mudville, Dan Casey himself, now 76 and living in retirement at Silver Spring, acquit himself on "Casey night" at Oriole park.

GOLF representatives of the Mansfield Metal Vaults today were riding at the head of the pack in the annual News-Journal Class B league race.

The Vaultmen, displaying considerable punch, whitewashed the Elks lodge club, 5 to 0, yesterday in opening round matches at Possum Run to take a one-point lead in the nip-and-tuck title drive.

Al's Kick's Second.

While the Vaults were thumping the Elks, Al's Kicks made an auspicious debut in the circuit by clouting out an impressive, 4 to 1, verdict over last year's runner-up Ohio Public Service entry to take second place.

In the other inaugural affairs, the Auxter Motors, paced by Frank Vild, defeated the News-Journal, 3 to 2, and the Bissman company, playing its first season in the league, took a 3 to 2 decision from the Central Fruit team. The Motors add Bissman share third place in the race.

The pace-setters, with Bob Dillon and Alex Davis, No. 3 and 4 men, respectively, leading the attack with a pair of neat 41's, swept through the Elkmen with little trouble. Fay Strome, the lead-off member of the foursome, came in with a 44, while John Rabal followed with a 49. Barrett paced the Elks with a 44, but lost his match to Dillon.

Led by Chuck Schlegel, who pounded out a 41, the Shoemen grabbed three matches and team total from the Service club. Ed Eichin, who had a 50, bowed to Alvin Mock to lose the only match. Mock accounted for a 47. Oscar Frantz was low for the losers with a 42.

With Vild cracking out a near-par 38, to set the individual scoring pace, the Motors took two matches and team total to down the News-Journal. The 168 team total was low in yesterday's matches. Clarence Conner grabbed the second match for the winners by scoring a 41. Maurice Byrnes and George Ballhett, with a 44 and 42, respectively, won the points for the News club.

Bissman had trouble with the Central Fruits, but annexed the deciding point by winning the team total, 179 to 180 Tony Schadek pounded out a 40 to pace the winners. Stirtzinger added the second match for the Bissman club by defeating Fred Loykovich, 43 to 45. Homer King's 43 and Fred Swigart's 49 scored the victories for the losers.

Conner, Rev. G. E. Swoyer and Harvey Sawhill and Ballhett waged a pair of close individual battles yesterday. Conner defeated Swoyer on the 12th hole although both turned in 41's, while Ballhett annexed his match from Sawhill with both turning in 42's.

DEWEY HAS LUCK, BUT IT'S ALL BAD

Mansfield's Pennant Winning Pilot Unable to Put Moultrie on Victory Track.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

DEWEY STOVER now has a pretty good idea how the numerous Fostoria managers felt last year when the Red Birds were dropping one game after another to finish deep in the basement of the Ohio State league.

The former Mansfield pilot has his Moultrie, Ga., hirelings playing at a clip little faster than Fostoria did last year, and he is showing the wear and tear of piloting a loser, too, according to dispatches from that city.

Stover drew a $25 fine and a five-day suspension, which was later reduced to two, for umpire baiting recently, and, if you know Dewey, the infliction of the penalty, not to mention a nine-game losing streak, didn't calm his nerves.

However, despite the poor showing of his team, Stover continues to smack the onion with the determination of a rookie. Latest figures show Stover clubbing the pellet at a .400 gait.

Stover's SOS for reinforcements resulted in the acquisition of George Biershenk and Lonnie Haulbrook, who were unable to make the grade with Clarksdale of the Cotton States league. Now Stover has six of the players he used in Mansfield back with him. In addition to Biershenk and Haulbrook, the Moultrie lineup includes Roy Lee, Fenton Beaman, Al Viegel and Steve Vesek.

Barrett Hits Well at Hazelton.

OF ALL the ball players with Mansfield last year, Johnny Barrett appears to be accomplishing the most in his advancement to higher company.

Barrett is clubbing the ball at a .310 gait for the Eastern league leading Hazelton, Pa., club, and he not only is getting a number of home runs, but also his share of sack thefts.

Hal Cheney is also doing a right smart job of pitching for Hazelton, but is finding it difficult to go the distance. His record shows a pair of victories against a lone defeat.

Little has been heard of Steve Patras, with the same club. His inability to break into the Hazelton lineup is a surprise.

Outside of Stover, Patras was the most finished ball player in the Mansfield lineup last year, and he was regarded as a better prospect than Barrett.

Patras, however, has always been a slow starter, and he may play the kind of ball he is capable of playing once he gets a chance to break into the lineup.

So far Patras has done nothing but serve in pinch hitting capacities.

Indians Need Second Sacker.

DAN DANIEL, who writes for the New York World-Telegram, insists the Indians are still very much in the market for a second baseman.

When the Tribe was in New York, Daniel writes, Alva Bradley conferred with Yankee officials. What player the Indians were trying to pry loose from the Yankees is not known, but it is believed that it was an infielder. Vitt, so Daniel says, not only needs a second sacker, but also a shortstop. The Gotham scribe figures Lary is through, and regards Webb as a weak hitter.

Daniel also stated that Vitt is in the market for an outfielder with an arm, and relays a report that he is willing to part with Earl Averill to obtain the type of gardener he seeks.

About the only nice thing Daniel had to say about the Cleveland situation was that Bob Feller is likely to be the pitcher of the year.

Club Too Good For Own Good

Legion Rolls Big Scores, But Loses Games.

Although they rolled 24 games of 950 or better and 17 totals of better than 2750, the American Legion bowlers finished eighth in the standings of the Club league, it was revealed in figures released today by Secretary Pete Mayer.

The Legionnaires, whose scores included a 3138, found it difficult to win because of the huge handicaps they were forced to extend rivals. They won 47 games and lost 52.

The Legion team rolled the eight highest totals in the league, in addition to the best single games, topped by a 1106.

Art Hilborn of the Optimists won the individual scoring championship with a 196.71 average in 99 games. Hilborn accounted for 13 better than 600 totals in the 33 weeks of bowling, and 48 200 games. Thull finished second in the averages with a 189.26 mark, with Garrison third with an 187.94.

Handles Hudlin Faultlessly as Tribe Beats Nats, 15-3, to Regain Lead.

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — The off-the-field antics of Rollie Hemsley have been splashed across sport pages everywhere since the playboy catcher joined the Cleveland Indians, but little mention has been made of the good work he has done for the Tribe.

With Cleveland back in first place in the torrid American league race today by virtue of a 15 to 3 triumph over the Washington Senators, Hemsley's role in the Indians' drive to the top assumes major proportions.

Works Regularly.

During the early part of the race Hemsley caught only the contests in which Bob Feller pitched. A badly bruised left hand prevented more frequent work. Then during the Indians' trip through the East, Manager Oscar Vitt announced that Hemsley would alternate every other day behind the plate with Frankie Pytlak. That announced plan did not materialize, however.

Hemsley received Feller in faultless fashion Wednesday and was back of the plate again yesterday to handle the veteran Willis Hudlin.

Hemsley has not hit hard this spring, but he has had a steadying influence on Cleveland pitchers and rival base runners have taken no liberties when he was behind the plate.

Cleveland turned loose a great power attack to gain its triumph yesterday. The Indians hammered two Washington pitchers for 13 hits and coupled the safeties with nine bases on balls. Included in the Tribe's barrage of hits were four doubles, a triple and three home runs.

Yields Seven Hits.

While the Indians murdered the offerings of Jimmy Deshong and Harry Kelley, Willis Hudlin limited the Senators to seven hits and was never in serious trouble.

Cleveland scored three times in the first inning, twice in the second, added five counters in the fourth and five more in the seventh. Washington pushed across one run in the fifth and two in the eighth.

Johnny Allen and Emil Leonard were to be the opposing pitchers in the second game of the series here today.

Cubs Go 10 Innings to Knock Game Off Giants' Lengthy Lead

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The red hot American league pennant race found the Cleveland Indians back on top today but the National league was gradually sneaking back into the spotlight.

The big drama in yesterday's baseball all came from the National, where four spectacular games were won in late innings.

Top triumph was the Chicago Cubs' 1-0 victory over the league-leading New York Giants in 10 innings. Big Bill Lee emerged victorious over Harry Gumbert in a great pitching duel which gave the Cubs the series by a two to one edge and chopped the Giants' lead to 4½ games. It was Lee's first complete game this season, and he made it a masterpiece. "Big Bill" allowed only five hits, all singles, walked none, and permitted only one man to reach second. The Cubs made six hits off their jinx, Gumbert. Two walks and Billy Herman's single won the game.

The amazing Boston Bees surged into third place by winning their third straight victory over Pittsburgh by a one-run margin, 4-3, in 11 innings. Al Lopez's double and Rabbit Warstler's single produced the winning tally.

Trailing 4-1 going into the seventh, Brooklyn staged two big rallies to break a four-game losing streak and trim the St. Louis Cardinals, 8-4.

A two-base muff by Lonnie Frey in the tenth enabled Pitcher Hugh Mulcahy, of the Phillies, to defeat Cincinnati, 5-4.

BUYING PROPS MARKET AFTER WEAK OPENING

Utilities Hold to Slim Groove as Holders Derive Comfort From TVA Offer.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Mild buying support propped the stock market today after an early dip of fractions to around a point.

Utilities held to a slim groove, although holders seemed to derive some comfort from the offer by the T. V. A. and city of Knoxville to buy from National Power & Light the power properties of its subsidiary, the Tennessee Public Service Co for $7,900,000 and National's tentative acceptance.

Bonds were uneven. Commodities generally retreated. Copper futures weakened.

Market analysts scanned weekend trade reviews without finding anything particularly encouraging.

Dun & Bradstreet reported retail distribution for the country as a whole averaged 3 to 8 per cent under the previous week and was 8 to 15 per cent below the corresponding period a year ago. Wholesale demand showed a drop of 5 to 9 per cent from last week and 10 to 25 per cent from the same 1937 period.

Other statistical sources, at the same time, felt that retail sales have held up better relative to the decline in industrial output than in past serious recessions. Commerce department figures, it was pointed out, disclosed that total retal volumes in 1930 reflected a decrease of about 13 per cent from the 1929 mark. This compared with a decline of about 20 per cent in industrial output.

'Grace Notes' on Radio Tonight

KIWANIANS CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY, RECALL 18 YEARS OF ACTIVITY

Mansfield Kiwanis club is 18 years old this week—and getting to be a great big boy in community service. The club celebrated its anniversary yesterday at the regular Thursday luncheon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, with a resume of its founding and its activities.

Reminiscences by former presidents recalled the 18 years of the club's activities. They were introduced by President Charles Conklin. The old "pepping-up" songs which the members sung in the early '20's were used, with Fred Cahall leading the group and Atty. William F. Black at the piano.

The club was organized May 18, 1920, and received its charter Sept. 2 of that year. The first officers were Frank Marquis, president; Con Dunn, vice president, and Frank Poling, secretary. The first board of directors was made up of A. C. Hand, Charles Schroer, Charles Mosey, J. H. Finefrock, A. W. Strater, W. C. Seiler, Dr. J. L. Stevens, W. J. Spreng, R. E. Hutchison, C. W. Conklin, C. L. Willsey, Fred Cahall and F. W. Wolff.

During the first years the club met each week at Hold's restaurant which was in the first block on Fourth street, west of Main, and for special events, the meetings were held at the Masonic temple.

In relating the early history of the club, Marquis said.

"When we organized we had two major aims; good roads out of Mansfield and a new Union depot. We have the roads at least. At that time there was just one road out of Mansfield that had a hard finish. That was the Olivesburg road that led to Cleveland, and only one side of it was finished."

In recent years the objectives of the club have grown with the needs of the city, and now it is interested in and supports a number of community projects and welfare agencies. It has been particularly active in support of the Friendly House.

All of the 17 living past presidents of the club and former members living in Mansfield and other cities, were present at the luncheon yesterday. Only one of the past presidents is dead—Frank E. Wilmore who served the club in 1925.

The past presidents who were introduced, and their years of service, are: Frank H. Marquis, '20; E. O. Townsend, '21; W. J. Spreng, '22; Charles Harding, '23; W. F. Black, '24; John Pierce, '26; E. W. Dann, sr., '27; Fred Cahall, '28; William Althouse, '29; Lester Redding, '30. Robert E. Hutchison, '31; Fred B. Wolff, '32; Emerson Weller, '33; Harry Finefrock, '34; Dr. William Wolford, '35; Dr. John S. Hattery, '36, and Dwight Smith, '37.

Frank Poling, one of the organizers of the club and later governor of the Ohio Kiwanis district, told of events that led up to the organizing of the club.

The club meets every Thursday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

THEATER

HERE AND THERE: After 30 years of trouping in the show business, Fanny Brice has come to rest in a new home in the Holmby Hills, near Hollywood, the first permanent home she's had. She's moving into it stuff she's collected over a period of years. . . . Bessie Barriscale—remember her?—is being tested for the role of Ellen Fortune in "The Young In Heart." Others who are being considered are Mary Pickford, Maude Adams, Grace George and Laurette Taylor. . . . Myrna Loy and Clark Gable will be co-starred in another picture, so big is the response to "Test Pilot." They'll make "Too Hot to Handle," and roles already are assigned to Walter Connolly, Walter Pidgeon, Leo Carrillo and little Virginia Weidler.

"Robin Hood"

With something like eagerness motion picture fans over the country have awaited the appearance of "Adventures of Robin Hood," for it is not only a type of picture that appeals to most people, but the subject matter stirs the imagination. Robin Hood, a gay rascal who robbed the rich to feed the poor, whose courage restored the throne of England to Richard the Lion Hearted and whose gallantry won for him the hand of the king's ward, the lovely Maid Marian, has inspired legends, poets, novelists, playwrights and composers. It was the theme of a picture 15 years ago with agile Doug Fairbanks as Robin. This time it is Errol Flynn and his Maid Marian is Olivia de Havilland. The cast is a long roster of well known names, including—to name a few—Patrick Knowles, Basil Rathbone, Ian Hunter, Claude Rains, Robert Warwick, Herbert Mundin, Eugene Pallette, and Allan Hale, who played in the Fairbanks version. The picture did almost as great a business in Cleveland on its first day as "Snow White." It opens as the Ohio tomorrow.

A Merry Comedy.

Constance Bennett and Brian Aherne romp through a merry—not to say definitely nutty—comedy at the Madison, "Merrily We Live." Except for the lure of seeing what will happen next one wonders why the apparently sane Mr. Aherne remained so long with the Kilbourne family of the story. But it's all good fun and good box office. The Kilbourne family and servants are, besides Miss Bennett, Billie Burke, Alan Mowbray, Patsy Kelly, Tom Brown, Ann Dvorak and Bonita Granville. It remains at the Madison through Saturday.

Col. McCoy At Majestic.

Col. Tim McCoy, dignified and handsome star of Western films and circuses, who has appeared in Mansfield the past two years with big circuses, is the Western attraction at the Majestic today and Saturday. He plays a Texas ranger, a role that should come easily to him. McCoy was formerly lieutenant governor of Wyoming, and later Indian agent of the state. He is one of the best known horsemen of the West. Rex Lease, another well known Western film player and Judith Ford are in the cast. "The Crime of Dr. Hallett," with Ralph Bellamy, Josephine Hutchinson and William Gargan is the second feature.

Vigilantes Ride.

The Three Mesquiteers, trio of Western stars, ride across the screen of the Ritz today and tomorow in a punch-crammed story, "The Purple Vigilantes." In the action Roy Corrigan, Max Terhune, and Bob Livingston clean up the wild town of Trails End, but not before some whirlwind action takes place between the night riding vigilantes of the town who stand for law and order, and the outlaws. Holding a prominent place on the two-feature bill is "This Is My Affair" with Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck, a love story in the post war period of 1900.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

"Secret of the Circle" by Alice Alison Lide and Margaret Alison Johansen, is primarily a story for boys, but the girls will no doubt read it too.

Lubeck Town, Germany, in the year 1275, is the setting, at the beginning of the story. Alberich the Merchant is about to begin his long journey, with horses and mule trains, to Cologne on the Rhine. His young son, Kurt is entrusted with a secret packet, to be delivered to the Duchess Elizabetta of Rhinehau. Even his father knows nothing about this secret mission. Kurt has many interesting and exciting adventures on the long trip. He sees the famous Cologne Fair, is presented to the Emperor Rudolph, visits monasteries and watches one of the monks make ink.

The many woodcuts are medieval in spirit, and add greatly to the attractive make-up of the book. The print is quite large.

FAITH LOST IN 'GATORS

OAKLAND, Cal.—(U.P.)—Dr. F. T. Barron, dentist, learned something new about teeth when his hand accidentally slipped into the mouth of a young alligator pet. The attending physician reported that he would not lose his fingers but that he had lost all confidence in 'gators.

CITY'S G. A. R. VETS TO MISS 'LAST ROUNDUP' AT GETTYSBURG

Mansfield will not be represented at the "last roundup" of the Blue and the Gray at Gettysburg the first week in July when the federal government will be host to the Union and Confederate veterans on the famous battlefield.

The city's six surviving veterans have received invitations to attend "last roundup" of the campfire comrades, but because of the infirmities of age, none will attend.

More than 8,000 invitations were sent out, signed by Henry Woodring, secretary of war, and the other four members of the commission appointed to assist Pennsylvania in the 75th anniversary observance of the battle of Gettysburg. About 1,600 veterans from the two armies have signified their intention of attending the reunion.

The "boys of '61," who wore the blue and the gray uniforms, will be quartered in separate camps, and all of their expenses, including traveling, will be paid by the government. The two camps will be on either side the meandering road leading to the new "Eternal Peace" memorial, now rising on Oak Ridge where the front line ranks of both armies met on July 1, 1863, the first day of the bloodiest battle in American history.

The Mansfield veterans who received invitations from Woodring are George Fisher, commander of McLaughlin Post; Christopher Frye, the oldest veteran, who will be 98 next October; William R. Tingley, W. B. Hammett, Thomas J. Shocker and Kempton Osier.

Bonds will be numbered from one to sixty-four both inclusive, and each bond shall be in the denomination of $1000.00, and will draw interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the 1st days of May and November of each year upon presentation and surrender of interest coupons to be attached to said bonds. First interest date, November 1, 1938.

PAM— The Colonel Puzzled! By A. W. Brewerton

I'M HAVING A GRAND TIME —SEEING SIGHTS, AND SO ON, BUT I WONDER —WHEN COLONEL CAREY'S PLANNING TO — RETURN TO THE BIG CITY?
CONFIDENTIALLY, PAM IS VERY, VERY ANXIOUS TO GET BACK! (CAN YOU GUESS WHY?) — AND HERE'S THE COLONEL, THINKING OF THE SAME THING — AND TROUBLED ABOUT IT!
MARVELOUS HOW THIS TRIP HAS AFFECTED PAM —SEEMS LIKE HER OLD SELF — SHAME TO HAVE TO GO BACK TO THE OLD SCENES — AND REMINDERS! — BUT I MUST BE GETTING BACK!
SORRY, SALLY, BUT I REALLY MUST GET BACK TO THE OFFICE — SOON — WELL, CLIFFORD, I'D PLANNED TO DO A LITTLE SHOPPING THIS MORNING — AND STARTING HOME RIGHT AFTER LUNCH — HOW'S THAT?
OF COURSE COLONEL CAREY KNOWS NOTHING OF THAT LETTER PAM HAD FROM THE NURSE AND SO IS MUCH SURPRISED AT PAM'S JOYFUL EAGERNESS WHEN SHE HEARS OF THE PLANS TO RETURN!
OH, I'VE HAD A GRAND TIME HERE, COLONEL — BUT I'LL BE — SORT OF GLAD TO GET BACK ON THE JOB, TOO — WON'T YOU?
WHY— — SURE!

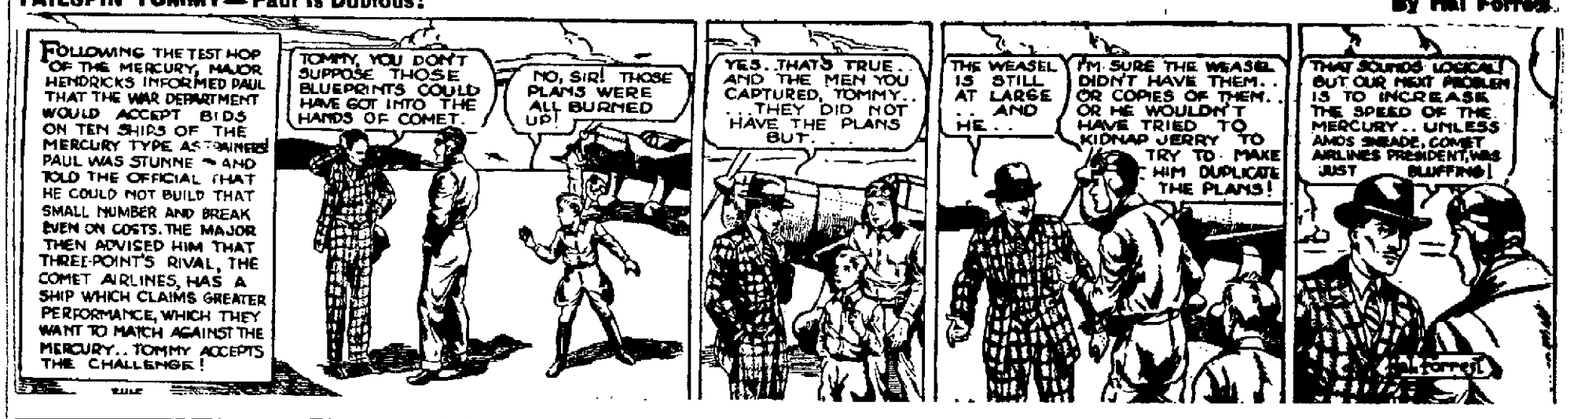
TAILSPIN TOMMY— Paul Is Dubious! By Hal Forrest



FOLLOWING THE TEST HOP OF THE MERCURY, MAJOR HENDRICKS INFORMED PAUL THAT THE WAR DEPARTMENT WOULD ACCEPT BIDS ON TEN SHIPS OF THE MERCURY TYPE AS PLANNED! PAUL WAS STUNNED AND TOLD THE OFFICIAL THAT HE COULD NOT BUILD THAT SMALL NUMBER AND BREAK EVEN ON COSTS. THE MAJOR THEN ADVISED HIM THAT THREE-POINT'S RIVAL, THE COMET AIRLINES, HAS A SHIP WHICH CLAIMS GREATER PERFORMANCE, WHICH THEY WANT TO MATCH AGAINST THE MERCURY.. TOMMY ACCEPTS THE CHALLENGE!
TOMMY, YOU DON'T SUPPOSE THOSE BLUEPRINTS COULD HAVE GOT INTO THE HANDS OF COMET.
NO, SIR! THOSE PLANS WERE ALL BURNED UP!
YES..THAT'S TRUE.. AND THE MEN YOU CAPTURED, TOMMY.. ..THEY DID NOT HAVE THE PLANS BUT..
THE WEASEL IS STILL AT LARGE.. AND HE..
I'M SURE THE WEASEL DIDN'T HAVE THEM.. OR COPIES OF THEM.. OR HE WOULDN'T HAVE TRIED TO KIDNAP JERRY TO TRY TO MAKE HIM DUPLICATE THE PLANS!
THAT SOUNDS LOGICAL! BUT OUR NEXT PROBLEM IS TO INCREASE THE SPEED OF THE MERCURY.. UNLESS AMOS SNEADE, COMET AIRLINES PRESIDENT, WAS JUST BLUFFING!

ALBANY, Ore.—(INS)—Toots is only a shepherd dog, but she can boast of having mothered four ravenous African lions.

The lions were born in the zoo at Portland, and were taken to the home of Toots' owner to be raised because zoo attendants feared their mother would kill them.

PLAN OWN QUIZ IN CLEVELAND

Relief Clients Map Action as Lawmaker Brands Davey's Charge 'False.'

months of 1937 had been a blow to city finances. He added that this year the city decided to throw all available funds into sponsorship of WPA work relief and thus keep down direct relief costs.

Committee Chairman A. Lee Fair (D-Holmes) said the investigators would go to Akron and Toledo early next week, possibly returning to Cleveland.

WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins said at Washington yesterday that "any responsibility for the relief situation (in Cleveland) rests squarely on Ohio."

WPA Acts to Help Record Relief Load.

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Faced with a "serious" relief crisis, Works Progress Administration officials prepared today to meet the heaviest summer relief load in the history of WPA.

WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins pessimistically announced that "in the near future" relief rolls will have to be increased to 2,800,000 or even 3,000,000, instead of the present 2,600,000, to care for the thousands of unemployed workers whose own resources have been exhausted as a result of the business recession.

The current situation was unusual because in previous years there have been marked declines in relief rolls during the summer months.

If it becomes necessary to increase WPA rolls to 3,000,000 workers, it will be the first time since the early months of 1936 that they have reached that level.

In only one month since the inception of WPA in the summer of 1935 has the total number of WPA workers exceeded 3,000,000. In February, 1936, it reached a high of 3,035,852. For nearly two years—until November 1937—WPA employment declined to a low of about 1,450,000. In February 1938, however, it jumped over the 2,000,000 mark and has been increasing steadily each month.

The latest available figures, Hopkins estimated, show WPA employment for the week ending May 14, 1938, as 2,627,848.

Assembly's Relief Tax Plan Fades.

COLUMBUS —(UP)— Enabling legislation permitting cities to finance part of relief costs by entering tax fields previously reserved to the state appeared doomed to defeat in the legislature today.

This development coincided with a statement in Washington by Harry L. Hopkins, WPA director, placing responsibility for action in the Ohio relief crisis on the general assembly and asserting the federal government had done its share by WPA employment.

Following a preliminary hearing on the Almendinger bill broadening excise taxing powers of local governments, members of the house taxation committee admitted there was little possibility of the bill being recommended for passage. Another hearing is scheduled Monday.

Even members of the Ohio League of Municipalities who sponsored it as a "desperate" measure as part of a $17,000,000 relief program, saw virtually no chance for its passage. They conceded they would prefer a statewide tax rather than to give the more than 100 taxing districts powers heretofore reserved to the state.

Prospects of defeat for the bill further complicated the task of raising relief money and reports persisted that cities might support an extension through 1942 of an increased state utilities excise tax, coupled with legislation encumbering other future tax proceeds for immediate needs.

LEMONS SENT TO TROPICS

BOSTON —(UP)— Add paradoxes: customs reports show that large quantities of fresh fruits and vegetables recently were shipped from this port to Bermuda, where hotels are crowded with tourists. Even more ironical, perhaps, were shipments of lemon juice to tropical islands.

OLD MANSFIELD LEGEND REVIVED

Story of John Peter Altgelt's Life Tells of Immigrant Who Became Governor.

free silver—John Sherman, and the man who did the most to make it an issue, should both have come from Mansfield.

The Altgelts first settled near Newville, and John Peter did a man's work on the farm while still a boy, and in slack times his father "hired him out" to other farmers. Later they moved to a farm near Little Washington. His father didn't believe in education, and only his own ambition and determination gave the boy courage to break with his father and come to Mansfield to enter high school.

The author tells how Altgelt lived over the Ritter tannery and carpenter shop with W. E. Ford, another student, and Robert McKee, and how Altgelt's mother smuggled food supplies to them. One evening an old neighbor found him walking the streets, discouraged and depressed because he couldn't buy necessary clothing. The neighbor took him to a clothing store and outfitted him.

Altgelt left Mansfield and wandered to Missouri and Iowa, studying law when he could, enduring endless hardships, before he reached the city of his dream—Chicago. No sooner had he established himself than he returned to Mansfield and married his early sweetheart, Miss Emma Ford, who with him, had taught at Woodville school.

The book gives a fascinating picture of the rise of labor unions in Chicago, the bloody Haymarket bombing, the Pullman strikes and the part that Altgelt played in championing the cause of the underdogs—which won for him the contumely of politicians and the press.

Powerful newspapers referred to him as "an unscrupulous communist," a "slimy demagogue" and "viper Altgelt." On the other hand, he inspired passionate praise from American men whose opinions have always been important. Clarence Darrow said of him: "Altgelt was one of the rarest souls that ever lived, a soldier in the everlasting struggle of the human race for liberty and justice;" Brand Whitlock, another protege of Altgelt, called him the "most courageous spirit of our times," and Newton D. Baker said he was "a genuinely great man, with a stamp of genius."

Three great poets have sung his praise. Carl Sandburg who likened him to Lincoln; Edgar Lee Masters who said "his courage, his genius . . . are things that belong to the romance and legendary treasures of America." Vachel Lindsay, the poet, who saw Governor Altgelt when the former was a boy, wrote "The Eagle That Is Forgotten," the poem which inspired the title of Barnard's book, and in which he sings of the one-time Mansfield school boy:

"Sleep softly . . . Eagle Forgotten
. . . under the stone,
Time has its way with you there,
and the clay has its own.
Sleep on, O brave-hearted, O wise man, that kindled the flame
To live in mankind is far more than to live in a name."

Ex-Butler Girl Has 3 Jobs In 1 At Detroit Hotel

A former Butler girl, Miss Mildred Merrin, has a position in Detroit in which she "doubles in brass" for the tired business man of the city, according to a story in the Detroit News the other day.

Miss Merrin sells luncheon tickets "with a smile" at the ballroom of the Statler hotel to the luncheon clubs that meet there weekly. And sometimes she plays the piano for the group singing when the Rotarian and Kiwanians feel like singing. In between tasks she aids in the hotel's auditing department.

She stilll claims Butler as her "home town" although she has been in Detroit eight years. Miss Merrin was born in Butler and is one of a large family of children who was left an orphan. She was raised in the home of J. G. Swank and family.

Nine years ago she went to Detroit to study piano, and later returned to Butler for a year to teach. At the end of the year she went back to Detroit and obtained a position at the Statler as cashier at the noon day luncheons, a position she has held for six years.

A mathematical wizard estimated that in six years she has sold 200,000 luncheon tickets — and passed out the same number of smiles.

There are about 2,000,000 lepers in the world.

THE MANSFIELD NEWS AND MANSFIELD JOURNAL
AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER
The Mansfield News Founded by W. S. Cappeller, March 7, 1885.
Published Daily Except Sunday by Mansfield Journal Co.
Office: Fourth and Walnut, Mansfield, Ohio. Phone Canal 4251.

Entered at Postoffice at Mansfield, Ohio, as second-class mail matter.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES—By Mail: Richland and adjoining counties per year, $4.00; 6 months, $2.25; 3 months, $1.25, (in advance), elsewhere in Ohio per year, $6.00; in U. S. outside of Ohio, per year, $7.00. By Carrier, per week, 15c.

FRIDAY, MAY 20, 1938.

Another Date for Mansfield History.

AIR MAIL was flown directly from Mansfield airport for the first time on Thursday afternoon, May 19, 1938. The flight was made by Henry E. Cunning, a regular Mansfield letter carrier, in his own low-wing monoplane. Cunning was commissioned by the government as a temporary air mail pilot for this trip. The start was made at 3:17 p. m., following ceremonies at which Paul W. Williams, Chamber of Commerce secretary, presided. Short talks were given by Claude M. Hunter, mayor of Mansfield, and by Herman E. Homberger, postmaster. Approximately nine thousand pieces of mail were flown to Cleveland on this trip, going thence to destinations by regular airmail routes. Cunning was accompanied on the trip by Robert E. Rogers, of The News-Journal staff, designated by Postmaster Homberger as observer. Arrival at the Cleveland airport was at 3:56 p. m., 39 minutes after departure from here.

* * * * *

THE ABOVE information is thus presented in brief, factual form, for the convenience of any later historians upon whom responsibility may rest to place a record of this epochal event in permanent form, as was done on another memorable occasion—June 19, 1846—when the populace gathered to see the first railroad train come into Mansfield, over tracks that then extended only from the Huron county village of New Haven to this city. On that day a number of Mansfielders walked as far as Spring Mills to catch a first glimpse of a steam engine and the few "small, square, open box cars" that it pulled.

Interesting also, for the record, is the information that first mail was brought to Mansfield as early as 1809, by carriers who sometimes came on horseback from Cleveland or Sandusky, "but, during the war of 1812, generally on foot, for greater safety; packing the mail bags through the woods, hiding in swamps and skulking in the bushes to save their scalps, and the mail from a savage foe."

From the dangers and slowness of mail transport in those early times to the relative safety and speed of present-day air mail transportation is such a long forward step that it is hard to realize the vast amount of initiative, energy and inventive genius expended in surmounting the succession of difficulties encountered all along the way.

Keep May 19, 1938 in mind as a date that will have a permanent place in Mansfield history—and also look forward confidently to another day when Mansfield will become a regular air mail port.

Schooling Has Practical Value.

WHILE there is an occasional example of outstanding achievements by persons with meager education, these apply largely to past generations or older members of the present generation.

With educational opportunities becoming more universal in the United States it is becoming increasingly evident that young people with only a grade school education are seriously handicapped in finding any kind of remunerative employment.

Along this line, an analysis of employment records of representative steel companies, recently made by the American Iron and Steel Institute, gives some thought-provoking information.

Of men hired in the steel industry during 1936 and 1937, nearly one-half had high school or college training, as compared with only one-fourth who had such educational advantages among those hired in 1929.

Increasingly larger enrollment in secondary schools and colleges generally has been a major factor in raising the proportion of high school and college-trained steel employes. Other important factors are the attractive wage levels, working conditions and opportunities in the industry, and the fact that modern steelmaking equipment needs a high type of operator.

About 43 per cent of those entering the companies' employ during 1936 and 1937 had gone to high school, while 6 per cent more had attended college before entering the industry. The remaining 51 per cent had not continued beyond grade school.

In 1929, only 25 per cent of the employes hired had gone beyond grade school. College-trained men represented only 2 per cent of the total, and those with high school training accounted for 23 per cent.

The End of a Losing Venture.

AMONG those familiar with the situation, announcement that the Newark Daily News has suspended publication, after five months of precarious existence, does not occasion surprise.

Here was a case of an Ohio city of approximately Mansfield's size, that was being satisfactorily served by one long-established newspaper.

Approximately a year ago a small group conceived the promotional idea of establishing a second newspaper in Newark and attracted some money to the enterprise.

After months of preliminary work, with expenditure of many thousands of dollars for plant equipment, supplies, services and building up an organization, production of a newspaper was started under circumstances which any experienced publisher would have immediately recognized as a losing venture.

Consolidation of newspapers, which has come about in many good-sized cities in recent years, has been the natural consequence of steadily increasing operating, equipment and white paper costs, and requirement for more complete news coverage and greater variety of special features.

While it is unfortunate that money was lost and time wasted in such an ill-advised venture as that of attempting to establish a second newspaper in Newark, knowledge of the outcome may at least serve to prevent others from indulging in similar folly.

When, within a few years, air mail is dispatched regularly from the Mansfield airport, it will seem odd that it was so much of a novelty yesterday.

Word comes that the WPA has allotted $179,631 to pay for having Cleveland's trees counted—which should serve nicely as a dog days project.

Torn by conflicting emotions is the merchant who also owns a farm that needs the rain.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

NEWS and comments at a glance:

The U. S. Social Security board is compiling relief costs. Here is the latest bulletin from the board: "Costs of public relief in March continued the rise recorded for the five preceding months. Total federal, state and local costs incurred for aid to the needy in March, including earnings under the works program, amounted to $234,800,000, an increase of approximately $18,000,000, or about eight per cent, over the total for February."

How long will the increases continue? Till the end of the year, it seems now.

OUTLOOK?

One of the leading market advisory firms is saying this:

"Business: Average well below 1937 level.

"Trend: Good gain over current levels.

"Farms: Income down; profits lower.

Real estate: Values, activity to improve.

"Retail trade: Sales below 1937; bargains in goods.

"Stocks: Strong rise as business picks up.

"Bonds: Substantial advance in medium grades."

To which we shall add something of our own: Commodity prices probably will continue dropping. Instead of a calamity that may prove a blessing in disguise.

HOW FAR?

How far will commodity prices drop?

The latest report shows a sharp decline.

Farmers may look with fearful eyes on this, but consumption and foreign sale may result.

Oil prices, too, may drop—and copper prices are none too certain.

It is doubtful whether any inflationary tactics can halt the commodity price drop this time. It is worldwide. Prices are seeking natural levels.

Consumption then, also, may rise to its natural level—and that would mean trade and "prosperity."

INCOME PROSPECTS

National income might not have reached its low for the recession yet.

Says the Alexander Hamilton institute: "The national income produced in the United States, after declining for four consecutive months, showed a slight upturn in March. The income in March was $4,349,000,000 as compared with $4,120,000,000 in February and with $6,426,000,000 at the recovery peak last October. . . .

"It is not possible to conclude from the preliminary information now available for April that the March upturn was extended. It is apparent, however, that, if there was any further gain, it was small. In fact, there is some evidence that, instead of a gain, there was a slight reaction. . . .

"There is now little prospect of any particular expansion in the national income before next August. It is quite possible that, in the meantime, the income may drop to a new low for the recession."

FASCIST OPPORTUNITY?

Mexico, for a long time prior to expropriation of oil properties, charged British, Dutch and American interests with exploitation.

Now comes D. Graham Hutton, associate editor of the London Economist, with the thought that the Mexican government merely may be changing exploiters. It may be forced, he says, to bring in German, Italian and Japanese concessionaires.

To which we may add:

This would not occur if the British and American oil interests would not make it impossible for Mexico to market its own oil. But these big private oil interests are putting up an effective boycott against Mexico. Thus, in the end, we may be giving indirectly, a foothold to Fascist nations in the republic to the south of us.

Oil has been the most disturbing factor in world affairs, next to fascism, since the World war. And, as its necessity for war purposes grows, it will become an increasingly dangerous factor.

Timely Editorial

The Economy Veto.

Governor Lehman of New York has been giving other state executives a good lesson in use of the veto power for purposes of public economy.

One day he turned thumbs down on measures calling for aggregate appropriations of more than $5,000,000.

And then he proceeded to prevent the allotment of $150,000 to pay the expenses of six legislators for a junket to California to "study" the San Francisco world fair.

In addition, he vetoed a bill authorizing the purchase of the Bear Mountain bridge at an unspecified cost which probably would have far surpassed the rosy estimates of the lobbyists.

At a time when Washington is running wild in the matter of public expenditures and when various states are living beyond their respective incomes, it is gratifying to find a governor clamp down without fear or favor on the spenders.

The Lehman philosophy is that of fiscal restraint and balanced budgets. It should be emulated in every branch of American government.—Newark Advocate.

Oil Nationalization Legal In Mexico

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Many folk evidently are puzzled by the state department's acquiescence in Mexico's nationalization of foreign oil properties south of the Rio Grande.

"Suppose," one of my acquaintances remarked to me the other day, "some foreign company acquired an acreage of Oklahoma or Texas oil land. So long as that company paid its taxes and complied with our laws generally, how could Uncle Sam find a valid excuse for confiscating its holding? For that matter, how could Uncle Samuel find an excuse for expropriating a similar domestic owner?"

Sure enough. Uncle Sam could not.

But the United States and Mexico are different.

The state department is strictly according to international Hoyle in its position.

DIFFERENT IN U. S.

The title-holder to a piece of land in the United States not only owns the surface of it but everything underneath its surface, theoretically down to the earth's center. And theoretically he owns the air above it, indefinitely on up into the firmament. He probably would have difficulty in getting a trespass verdict against an aviator for flying across his place, a mile or two up in the heavens, but he certainly can put a stop to having wires strung across it, only at the height of a telegraph or electric power pole.

That is old English common law, which we inherited.

The government's authority of eminent domain slightly qualifies these personal property rights, but almost inappreciably.

BUT IN MEXICO—

In Mexico it has been an established principle, dating back to the time of the Spanish conquest, that all sub-soil riches are the state's.

When Mexico was Spain's such riches were the crown's.

Oil of course was not recognized in those days, but gold and silver were.

Madrid's royalty had to have the metals dug up, indeed, in order to make them useful.

However, it never ceded its mines to private diggers.

It simply granted concessions to individual miners to scratch up all they could and turn it over to the home government, holding out a stipulated percentage, for their effort, enterprise and expenses.

AN ESTABLISHED SYSTEM

I have no doubt that the working mining companies grafted enormously on the Madrid government or that they frightfully oppressed their workers.

Still, they established that system.

Modern Mexico adopted it.

It would be illegal here.

It sounds as natural to a Mexican court as the Bill of Rights seems to us.

Moreover, there is a certain aroma of New Dealerishness attached to the Mexican interpretation of the thing.

BRITAIN'S OTHER CLAIMS

We cannot consistently do otherwise than agree with Mexico—in principle.

Britain, however, has some other claims—based on damage suffered by British properties in revolutions from 1910 to 1920, quite independently of the present Mexican oil readjustment.

Those old claims amount to approximately $88,000.

Good gosh! Eighty-eight thousand dollars, as compared with 40 billions!

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Why We Call Them "Quacks."

Quacks political, quacks scientific, quacks academical—a short ugly syllable is quack; but a pint can be as full as a gallon of poison.

Quack is not English, or rather, it is English by adoption or graft only.

An abbreviation of the Dutch kwakzalver, it is imitative (of the duck's cry) in origin, the allusion being to early irresponsibles and mountebanks who boasted about the virtues of their salves or ointments.

From being used at first in connection with ignorant pretenders to medical or surgical skill, the term finally came to be applied to other charlatans, impostors and empirics.

The word appeared in the English language about the middle of the 17th century.

Doctor Says Damaged Liver Gives 'Morning After' Taste

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE MAN in the street frequently refers to "biliousness." The Englishman, more often than his American brother, speaks of being "liverish." But your doctor is liable to "pooh-pooh" when you say you are bilious. The medical profession has not taken very kindly to the idea that there are functional disorders of the liver which can be recognized and identified by their symptoms.

It is somewhat surprising, therefore, that Sir Arthur Hurst, senior physician at Guy's hospital, London, should choose the subject of "Biliousness and Wind Around the Heart" for the very swanky Harveian lecture in 1938.

The symptoms, according to Sir Arthur, are that a man wakes up with a dull headache, a dirty tongue, no appetite for breakfast, and the conviction that life is not worth living, tells his wife that his bad temper is due to his liver, and the doctor be damned.

The liver is well provided with means for taking care of poisons, but it is not always capable of destroying them when they arrive in excess.

Among the poisons that most commonly derange the liver is alcohol, and according to tests reported, even a small amount may cause perceptible liver damage. Five young men were tested with the levulose test (which tests the functional capacity of the liver) on different occasions, once on "the morning after the night before," and again when they had been abstemious for several days. In spite of the fact that "the morning after" consisted of only a single case of indulgence, impaired liver function of considerable amount was noted, compared to the normal morning in all five of these human guinea pigs.

Liver Damaged.

Continuous and habitual use, of course, is liable to lead to more extensive liver damage. Chronic drinkers usually have a fairly accurate knowledge of the surface anatomy of the liver because they can feel their own livers, and aching livers among them are not uncommon.

The liver makes a remarkable come-back, however, under favorable circumstances. We have the record of a man who drank a bottle of champagne a day for 20 years. He was thought to be dying from some obscure abdominal complaint; his liver was large, hard and very tender. After three months on a strict diet his liver could no longer be felt and he returned home, perfectly fit, able to play tennis and golf for the first time in five years.

Another one had drunk from one to three bottles of whiskey a day for over a year, but also recovered completely.

The relation between migraine (sick headache) and biliousness has often been emphasized. What is called an attack of biliousness in a child is about the same thing as an attack of migraine in an adult.

Mothers Needn't Be Martyrs.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ARE YOU a middle-aged mother? A miserable middle-aged mother who feels that her life "has been one long sacrifice" for her children, and who is filled with self-pity and resentment because those children no longer make mother the center of their universe?

Then here's a story that's good for what ails you. It's a true story of another woman who has lived her life for her children, and how she feels about it now.

Twelve years ago (she's forty-eight now) she divorced the father of her four children who were twelve, nine, six, and three years of age. Since then, with a very little help from her father and the oldest boy, she has brought them up alone, doing all her own housework, besides holding a position as secretary in a business office.

And she hasn't been content to give them just a hand-to-mouth existence. It has been a good living. Three of them have high school educations. The oldest boy has a good trade. They live comfortably and entertain happily in a seven-room house.

On the day the mother wrote, the two oldest boys were out of the state on a week-end trip. The youngest boy was on a motorboat trip with a party of chums. The little girl was away on an automobile trip with a party of friends.

And what was this mother doing there in that empty house, while her children went merrily forth seeking their own happiness? Was she brooding bitterly over her lost youth, over the long, toiling years of sacrifice? Was she shedding tears of self-pity because those children were neglecting dear old mother?

Indeed, she wasn't!

"I am alone and I like it," she writes.

"Most of my women friends are horrified when they hear me say that, but it's true. I do like being alone by myself. I am never lonesome, nor do I feel neglected; for in spite of my position as a mother, I have always managed to remain myself—to retain my own separate career, my own personality and my own interests.

"I have lived for my children, but I have also lived for myself. I have not considered my work 'a sacrifice,' or a penalty which had to be borne because I was a mother. I have felt that I was living my own life when I worked.

"Most mothers seem to forget that. They act as if their children were to blame for all their hardships.

"I have never made my children feel that I was anything but glad to have them and to work for them. And yet I have also made them feel that I have rights as an individual which must be respected, just as I respect their rights.

"I have always done all I could for my children without too much work and inconvenience to myself; for I never could see that any good came out of a mother making a martyr of herself.

"And because I have enjoyed myself, my children enjoy me. They wait upon me, laugh and joke with me, and give me about two-thirds of their salary every week without my asking for it.

"I am still very young-looking, and keep myself so. I work hard to keep my own circle of friends and my personal interests, apart from my children's lives. I am always willing to play with my children, but I also realize that I have had my girlhood and I don't expect to live it over again in their youth. I believe in people of my generation 'acting their age.'

"Moreover, I have prepared my children to make happy homes for themselves, and am looking forward to the day when they will leave me and go into a greater happiness than I can give them.

"Probably some of your readers will consider me an inhuman, unnatural and selfish mother because of this, and yet I know of no home that is happier than ours.

"Do you think I'm a failure?"

JANE HARDING.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Since the beginning of the theatrical season Broadway showmen have been battling a transatlantic jinx. At the moment they feel they have conquered it, but if you mention it in a tone above a whisper you are very likely to revive their terrors.

Producers suffering from this jinx are obsessed with the notion that no play that succeeds in London has the ghost of a chance on Broadway. Similarly, a Broadway success, they fear, is doomed to early destruction in Piccadilly. Or at any rate, that was the hallucination before two ocean-crossers disarmed the hoodoo by flourishing on alien soil.

IT ALL began when "George and Margaret," a London success, came a quick cropper over here last Autumn. It had been proclaimed a British model of last year's Pulitzer prize play, "You Can't Take It With You," and its success seemed certain. The British Empire repaid our hostility to "George and Margaret" by rejecting "You Can't Take It With You" with even shorter shrift than we accorded their favorite.

Shortly thereafter another of our hits, "Room Service," perished in London. We retaliated by having no part of London's "Time and the Conways." It was at this point that Victor Payne-Jennings, one of London's most prominent showmen, came to New York to produce "Whiteoaks."

Appalled by these transatlantic disasters, he instructed his staff to hush all news relating to the success of his play in London—which was rather difficult, since it was known to be the British capital's oldest hit and, moreover, Ethel Barrymore was announced as the star of the American version.

When the play went to Montreal, Toronto and other try-out cities previous to its New York premiere, Payne-Jennings had recurrent agonies. He feared word of its prosperity on tour would strengthen the jinx on it. And when Washington supported it generously, the British producer was reluctant to return from Palm Beach to witness the debacle he was sure the first night would bring.

IN THE three days intervening between the Washington closing and the New York opening, everybody connected with "Whiteoaks" went about with the dispirited air of one about to lose his head. The jinx rested heavy on them, and nothing could dissuade them from their conviction that their enterprise was a marked failure.

But just before the curtain went up there came a sunbeam from London. It seemed that "Idiot's Delight," the Pulitzer prize play of 1936, had scored a resounding success in the British city. The news cheered Payne-Jennings enormously. Certainly, he thought, Americans will preserve this renewed hands-across-the-sea bond.

They did. "Whiteoaks" succeeded, and managers with interests in the two capitals now walk with lighter step. But if you look closely at their hands, you'll notice they keep their fingers crossed.

Take Life in Stride.

IT SEEMS TO ME a very wonderful thing for a man to be able to take life in stride.

I don't do it so well. I fuss over little things and must remind myself that the things I fuss about ARE little. My blood pressure goes up if somebody pushes ahead of me at a ticket window or somebody slips into that parking space I thought was mine, and it's some time before I get it down again. Usually I keep my tongue to myself, but I seethe and storm inside and do a lot of superfluous hating.

Nevertheless I envy all those people who take the big and little troubles of this world in their stride. They have, within themselves, a precious power.

I have a friend whose wife died a few years ago, and I know she is seldom out of his mind. They were perfectly married and she meant more to him than anything else in life. He loved her as few men love women and would not have ceased to love her ever. She died and left him alone ...But you could not look at this man and say: "He is crushed by grief," because he was NOT crushed by it. He did not accept it, he fought rebelliously against the tragic uselessness of that death — but he did not lose his courage and I have heard him laugh thousands of times since his wife died.

I know another man who lost a little son many years ago—the only child in a family in which there will never be another. That son would be twenty now, and when I see that father look at other youths of that age I can almost SEE the thought of his own son in that man's eyes. He does his work, he enjoys life as much as he can. He is considered a happy fellow. But I know not a day passes that he does not remember that little lost boy—and he is merely taking life in his stride.

I have seen young hurdlers come down the straightaway and marveled at the power and grace of their progress—how smoothly they run, how easily they rise and top those hurdles and touch the ground and race on, taking each obstacle in their stride. And I admire all men and women who can take life in just that way—by the strength of their understanding, by the grace of the courage that is in them. You need no Seven League Boots to do that with life. You need guts.

FIND DOMESTIC RIFTS REDUCED IN 'HARD TIMES'

Court Officials Cite Records to Show Drop in Divorces During Recession.

By VIRGIL A. STANFIELD

Business recessions may deprive families of luxuries and even some necessities, but they tend to keep the home together.

That is the opinion of Richland county court officials who have received less than half as many divorce suits so far this year as in the same period in 1937 when business was booming.

Fifty-one husbands and wives have taken their domestic differences into court in 1938 as against 110 who applied for divorce in the county by the middle of May last year.

Divorce acions filed last year increased to 256 from 225 in 1936, due mainly, it was said, to the improvement in economic conditions.

More Dependent Now.

Harry Crouse, county probation officer, whose office serves as a clearing house for alimony payments and the complaints of divorced wives and husbands, pointed out that married couples become more dependent in times of economic stress and are more likely to stay together.

When money is easily earned, the husband is often tempted to gamble or spend it on other women, Crouse said, and those two "sins" are major causes of divorce, county records show. Economic conditions also have a lot to do with the wife's dependence on her husband, causing her to "put up with" more because of necessity, Crouse believes.

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, who granted 154 divorces last year, emphasized the inability of couples to manage their finances as one of the main causes of marriage rifts.

Sees Lack of Training.

"It's not so much the lack of money as the way they use what they have that leads to family troubles," Judge Huston said. "Then too many of the young people who marry have not had the proper home training in responsibility, and consequently when the natural difficulties arise, neither is willing to make the best of them."

He asserted that liquor figures in possibly two-thirds of the cases that come into his court, and gambling in more than half of them.

Figures at the courthouse show that more than half of the marriages in the county last year ended in the divorce court, but it was pointed out that a number of marriages dissolved here were performed in Kentucky or Indiana.

There were about 450 marriage licenses issued in 1937 in probate court, while 256 divorce actions were filed and 154 were granted.

Despite the marked reduction in divorces in 1938, the ratio to marriages may be about the same, because the darkened economic picture has also resulted in a drop in applications for marriage licenses.

In his handling of divorce cases, Judge Huston attempts to act as an arbiter for the disgruntled couples who think they can't "make a go" of their marriage contracts. Largely as a result of his efforts to keep couples together, 56 divorce cases were dismissed in 1937. He refused to grant four, because, he explained, "giving them their freedom might do more harm than good."

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 22 is Mark 12:13-17; 28-34, the Golden Text being Mark 12:31, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.")

"POLITICS MAKES strange bed fellows," but never stranger than on that Tuesday of our Lord's last week, when Pharisees, Herodians and Sadducees made common cause against Jesus "that they might catch him in talk."

The Political Question.

They concluded that the most likely question on which to catch him and discredit him either with the people or with the powers of Rome, was the question, "Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar or not?" No question was so loaded with dynamite as this one. And they thought they had cleverly shut him up to a "yes" or "no" answer, where "yes" would at once alienate the people; and "no" would as surely throw him liable to the charge of sedition against Caesar, and Rome would take care of him to their satisfaction. But Jesus surprised them, not by evading the question, but by asking them a question more fundamental than their own, and by asking it he tactfully removed them from the offensive and put them on the defensive, and forced them to judge themselves. Not having any money of his own, he asked them for a piece of the money in question, and they promptly produced it from their own purses, thus condemning them for accepting and using in their business the benefits of Rome's government, while unwilling to support the government they used. Therefore, Jesus said to them, "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's." We talk much of our civic rights, but are not so keen about having our civic duties pointed out. We expect the government to do everything for us and rebel at doing anything for our government. Caesar cannot always be rendering unto us; we must at times "render unto Caesar."

Church and tSate.

Nor need "the things that are Caesar's" be arrayed against "the things that are God's." Civic duties and religious duties need not clash with one another. The state is God's institution to minister in things civic and political and the church is God's institution to minister in things spiritual. In these days when, under different forms of government than ours, dictators are restricting and persecuting the church, we should thank God as never before for our American system of absolute separation of church and state, which enables each citizen of whatever faith to follow the dictates of his own conscience in rendering unto Caesar, in the state, the things that are Caesar's and unto God, in the church of one's own free choosing, the things that are God's.

The Legal Question.

After answering the political question regarding tribute and a doctrinal question of the Sadducees regarding the resurrection, there came to Jesus a scribe with a legal question: "What commandment is the first of all?" There were hundreds of chances of going wrong here, so the scribe must have thought. But Jesus enunciated the basic command that includes all others, the law of love—supre

Dead Seal Still Brings $2 Bounty In Massachusetts

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—(INS)—A pair of Harvard students added an old law plus a dead seal to obtain a sum of $2 from the Cambridge city treasury.

When the student pair entered the office of City Treasurer William J. Shea and demanded $2 for a seal they had shot at Marblehead, Shea at first objected. The students then showed him a copy of an old statute under which he found himself obliged to pay a $2 bounty on the seal's carcass, remove its nose so it could not be used for further collections, and report to the state treasurer, who must not only reimburse him for the bounty paid, but add an additional fifty cents for his trouble.

Lieutenant Governor Posts $25,000 Bail; Jury Charges Million Dollar Fraud.

(By Associated Press)

WATERBURY, Conn. — Lieut. Gov. Frank Hayes, facing a grand jury's accusation that he helped defraud the city of Waterbury of "sums of money in excess of a million dollars" posted $25,000 bail today pending his trial on a charge of conspiracy.

Hayes, who also has been mayor of this city for the past eight years, appeared at the courthouse just before noon. With him were his mother, Mrs. Ellen Hayes, and two of his closest political allies, Henry W. Minor, chairman of the police commission and Thomas P. Kelly, his executive secretary.

Hayes, Minor, Kelly and 24 others, many of them prominent in the city administration, were named in an extraordinary grand jury's report last night as members of a "powerful, ruthless and corrupt group" charged with defrauding the city. Warrants charging conspiracy have been issued against all 27.

Declines To Comment.

The lieutenant governor declined to comment on the charge against him.

At the office of Court Clerk George Freeman, Hayes handed over several typewritten pages, apparently lists of property holdings, and said to a clerical assistant:

"Those are bonds for myself and Mr. Minor."

The warrant, charging a "conspiracy" to defraud the city was issued last night after a special grand jury had charged Waterbury had been "under the domination of a small but powerful, ruthless and corrupt group of men who managed the affairs of the city for personal and political advancement."

The report also disclosed the grand jury had been investigating lobbying activities at Hartford, the state capital, asserting "that political influence has been for sale by the secret lobbyists during sessions of the general assembly and has frequently been purchased has been vividly demonstrated to this grand jury."

Bail for the 19 other defendants ranged downward to $5,000.

The defeat of Leary, also a Democrat, by 33 votes through a coalition of Republicans and insurgent Democrats last December, led to the grand jury investigation. It was precipitated by Sherwood L. Rowland, the new comptroller, who charged he had found evidences of financial irregularities in the administration of his predecessor.

SOUTH PROTESTS

Senators Want Differentials in WPA Pay Eliminated.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Southern senators demanded elimination today of regional differentials in WPA pay in the event congress enacts a nationwide minimum wage.

Many southern legislators have criticized the wage-hour bill which the house will debate Monday because it does not provide a lower wage scale for the south. The WPA, they pointed out, has a generally lower rate for that area.

Their informal discussion of an amendment to standardize WPA pay schedules if the house bill passes came as a senate appropriations subcommittee gathered to approve the $3,000,000,000 relief and public works bill.

PUTS OKAY ON SCHOOL PLANS

State Department Approves Million Dollar Program; Up to WPA Next.

The Mansfield board of education's proposed $1,000,000 building program today received the approval of the state department of education and will be submitted next to state WPA officials, Superintendent W. L. Miller said.

The state department's official sanction was given by Dr. D. H. Sutton, director of school finance, who considered plans for two new junior high school buildings and a one-story shop building at Senior high school.

With the application for PWA funds for approximately 45 per cent of the total cost of the proposed program will go a draft of plans for the buildings now being prepared by Mansfield architects.

Necessary application blanks for submitting the plans to WPA authorities are expected from Columbus within a few days, Superintendent Miller said.

After the application is submitted, success of the program will depend on favorable action for a federal grant and the vote of Mansfielders on a bond issue to finance the rest of the building cost.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

"Blessings on thee little man.
Barefoot boy with cheek of tan . . ."

IT IS a wonderful experience to be a barefoot boy on the farm. The constant vital touch of earth does something to the growing boy that all the doctor's medicines, the expensive artificial light rays cannot do.

I never shall forget the pleasure we had on each early morning when running through the dewy fields. We made a path, and often I have wagered with my brothers as to which of us could mark the straightest line. The dewy grass would splash sometimes above our knees. How clean and white our legs would show, washed in this morning baptistry

It was my pleasure to greet theh rising sun and watch the blazing east, and see the sun's first level rays point like long moving fingers across the grayish, dripping landscape. Too early for a small country boy? Not at all. It was a heritage that now, in memory, seems almost divine. The price paid was small compared with the splendid wonders that were mine.

To be sure, our early walk across the fields was to bring the cows from pasture Sometimes it rained, or we found it very cold. Often I chased the resting cow from her warm, grassy bed and then stood there myself, to warm my aching feet. They felt so good and tingly when they quit hurting—looked so pink and healthy.

All through the long summer we ran about until by fall our soles were as thick and tough as leather We could walk on sharp stones, in stubble fields and new-mown meadows with very little feeling of discomfort.

Sometimes in the dusty road we would tie our pants legs shut with binder twine, then fill with finest sand, until it overflowed about the waist. No one knows the pleasant, ticklish feeling as we walked about like short, fat dwafrs.

But when evening came, and my mother produced warm water and a generous portion of home-made lye soap, my pleasures were forgotten in my present misery.

Any boy who has lived in the country and is denied the rich experience of going barefoot has missed too much

"From my heart I give thee joy,
I was once a barefoot boy."

INMATE FIGURES IN LITIGATOIN

Named in Action in Which Insurance Firm Seeks to Avoid Liability.

A Jefferson county inmate at the Mansfield reformatory was the central figure yesterday in a hearing in Richland county common pleas court of a demurrer to a suit in which the Mercer Casualty company seeks to avoid payment of $375,000 damages for the death of five persons in an automobile accident.

Although Russell Plunkett, the inmate did not appear in court, it was the issue of his legal driving of a car which figured in the fatal crash that concerned counsel in the case.

Judge C. H. Huston, who heard arguments in the case, called for briefs of counsel for both sides and delayed his decision.

Plunkett, who is serving a one to 20 year term for manslaughter as a result of the crash last May near Steubenville is said to have been driving an automobile without the owner's consent when the accident occurred.

Relatives and administrators of the crash victims brought damage suits against Plunkett, and the insurance company, located at Celina, filed an action against Plunkett and others in the case, contending that it could not be held responsible for the payment of damages.

The firm ahd issued a liability policy to John Gall of Jefferson county, owner of the car driven by Plunkett.

PROPOSE ACTION IN SHELBY GAS FIGHT TUESDAY

Councilmen Decide to Pass Rate Ordinance After Discussion in Closed Session.

(By Staff Correspondent)

SHELBY—Shelby city council wrestled with the gas rate problem for an hour and a half last night, behind closed doors, and emerged with the decision to pass a rate ordinance next Tuesday night.

Although the discussion was conducted in private, it was learned today that definite sentiment had been crystallized on two points: council will definitely oppose and increase in rates, and will stand firmly against any rate structure that includes a "sandbag."

Pays 74 Cent Rate.

Shelby is now paying a rate that amounts to 74 cents a thousand feet, for the 5,000-foot consumer, under the "sandbag" provision of a rate contract approved five years ago.

In was also learned that council will seek to enter a three-year contract, rather than a five-year arrangement.

After disposing of other business last night, council closed its doors in an executive session for discussion of the gas rate question on the motion of Councilman John Chew. It was 90 minutes later that members left the city building.

Questioned about what had transpired, members said the meeting had been adjourned until Tuesday night, that no rate proposal had been brought up, but that an ordinance would be introduced Tuesday. The Tuesday meeting is expected to be an open one.

It was learned last night that a three-man bloc in council has been opposing any effort to rush through a new rate ordinance, preferring to watch the progress of Mansfield's negotiations for a new contract. Both cities are faced with the necessity of adopting a new rate contract with the Ohio Fuel Gas company. Mansfield's present rate, however, is lower than Shelby's, and is a three-year straight rate agreement.

Cause of Opposition.

When negotiations were opened here last month, the company proposed a five-year contract, with a rate that would have the 5,000-foot consumer pay 69½ cents a thousand feet for three years, and 74 cents a thousand for two years.

It is that increase in the final two years that has developed opposition in council, it was learned.

DIONNES TO BE UNDER ONE ROOF

Papa, Mama and All the Rest to Live in New Home Built by Riches of Quints.

NORTH BAY, Ont.—(Canadian Press)—Papa Oliva and Mamma, the quints and the seven other little Dionnes at last are to live under one roof as one family.

Thus will be ended the cause of much resentment by the senior Dionnes, who have wanted their famous five at home with their other children since the quints became wards of the king and set up house in their own nursery.

The quints will be four years old May 28.

There now has begun "a new spirit of co-operation," said Father Dionne's attorney who with Judge J. A. Valin, chairman of the quintuplet board of guardians, announced the projected set-up.

Plans are to be drafted at once for a new home at Corbiel, five miles north of the present house and the nursery at Callander. It will house all the Dionnes and should be ready by September.

Near millionaires with earnings from the movie and advertising contracts, the quints are to pay for their new abode, which will be so constructed that it can be halved, to isolate them in the event of illness.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe, who helped bring the quintuplets into the world, will continue as their doctor and will hire their nurses. Duncan McArthur, deputy minister of education for Ontario, will supervise the addition of any teachers.

The agreement between guardians and parents was reached yesterday, the outgrowth of an unsuccessful effort by the father last month to get a judicial investigation of the management of the quintuplets' affairs.

BOY, 9, HELD

Youth Accused By Police of Stealing Money From Mother.

A nine-year-old colored boy, who only a week ago was released from the Juvenile research bureau in Columbus was held by police today in connection with the theft of $5 from his mother.

The boy was arrested by Patrolman Howard Shuck this morning on North Diamond street. The officer said he stopped to question the youth when he appeared to be acting in a suspicious manner. Questioned about an unusual amount of money in his pockets and a new wrist watch disclosed that he had taken the money from his mother's purse, the officer said.

off men with five years service and more and keep eight apprentices. The union asked them to keep the eight men with the longest service records and lay off the apprentices instead. The company refused."

The furloughs, Callahan said, were to go into effect last night.

Union officials said they would ask for paid vacations among other things.

The union recently rejected a 12½ per cent wage reduction proposed by the company.

Vice President Graham was permitted to go through the picket line. He told newspaper men he did not care to discuss the strike situation.

From other sources it was learned that the company did not plan an attempt to reopen the plants during the strike.

The electricians pulled the switches about 9 p. m.

Rail Unions In Threat to Strike.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Railroad labor unions added a threat of a nationwide strike today to efforts of administration senators to prevent rail lines from putting a 15 per cent wage cut into effect July 1.

The Railway Labor Executives association, charging in a statement that the roads had "double-crossed" their employes, asserted a strike would be the "only ultimate result" if the railroads pressed their $250,000,000 wage reduction program.

Senate opposition to the cut crystallized in withdrawal yesterday of a committee-approved bill to make more liberal RFC loans available to railroads.

The bill was on the house calendar for debate this afternoon.

The senate returned the measure to its banking committee at the request of Chairman Wagner (D., N. Y.), who said there had been "no discussion" of the wage cut proposal at the time the bill had been considered.

Wagner told reporters that several committee members wanted to include a no-wage-cut stipulation in the legislation. Both labor and management will be called to discuss the issue, he said.

BOARD MEETING DELAYED WEEK

County School Session Called Off; Shift Re-Districting Plan.

A meeting of the Richland county board of education scheduled for 10 a. m. Saturday, has been postponed to a week from tomorrow, Boyd Robinson, county superintendent, announced today.

The board will take action on a redistricting program for schools in the northern section of the county.

The delay in the meeting date will permit further consideration of a revamped program, made necessary by protests against the closing of the Adario high school and transporting of its 55 pupils to the Union district in Weller and Franklin townships.

Richland Inmate Among 44 To Be Released From O.S.R.

One Richland county inmate was among the 44 at the Mansfield reformatory to be granted paroles by the Ohio board of parole, dispatches from Columbus said today. The board granted one conditional release and continued 49 other cases.

The Richland county inmate is Ernie Green, alias Kelly Green, who will released to go to Tennessee July 18 after serving 11 months on a one to 20 year sentence for shooting to kill.

STEALS SHOW AT CLEVELAND

'Flying Postman' Surrounded by Camera Fans, Autograph Seekers at Airport.

happen—and they really happen fast at the air mail terminal where the postoffice department clears 24,000 letters every day.

We taxied up to the "bullpen." The ship was immediately surrounded by postal employes. We crawled out to be greeted by Michael O'Donnell, the Cleveland postmaster and assistant superintendent of air mail, W. H. Cady.

A slim youth with a pistol strapped to his hip took the mail pouch as Cunning dragged it from the baggage compartment. Another shoved a log book under his nose for a signature, while still another took and signed the way bill that we had carried along with us.

Cunning, attired in his postal uniform grinned from ear to ear as he waved to cameras that clicked on all sides. The white-haired O'Donnell, introduced him to Cleveland newspaper men as "one of his boys—the flying postman."

Only 'Flying Postman.'

He explained that Cunning was the only known mail carrier in the service, who owns his own ship, and was making the flight as a "regular employe of the service."

White overalled mechanics took the plane, rolled it back off the runways as Cunning patiently signed his name for hundreds of autograph hunters.

Then as the guests of O'Donnell and Cady, we were taken to the railway mail office where we saw a demonstration of speed and efficiency which is the by-word of the air mail service.

The pouch that we had flown 55 miles was already opened and being sorted and 16 employes were busily engaged in routing the letters, some of which would be on giant luxury liners winging their way across the nation within a few minutes.

But lets get back to the flight that was to link Mansfield with the regular air mail route for the first time as the fitting climax to the city's observance of national air mail week.

I had been invited by Postmaster Herman Homberger to make the flight with the air mail—"would I like to?" "You bet—it had been two years since I had been up last and I jumped at the opportunity. I was to go along as an observer, Homberger said. He would rather keep both feet on the ground."

At the airport there were postmasters from Shelby, Plymouth, Shiloh, Bellville and Lexington. Mayor Claude M. Hunter, Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert, Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce and a score of others crowded around Postmaster Homberger and Assistant Superintendent of Mails H. W. Zellner, as they cancelled the last letter that I had taken along with me.

Mail from the surrounding towns was loaded into one pouch and tossed on the scales—"57 pounds," announced Zellner.

As we got into the ship at the airport, Cunning said he felt a "little nervous," but he wasn't nervous when he settled back in the seat and took over the controls after facing a battery of cameras. He was the master of his sturdy little ship that was to take us 55 miles to Cleveland.

We taxied to the extreme east end of the field, came about as the two ships that were to escort part of the way did an about face on either side.

The motor was gunned. "All set?", questioned Cunning, I nodded and we began to roll along the bumpy runway—35, 50 then 80 miles an hour and the green grass began to move away from us. We were up.

It was a steady climb to about 1,000 feet where we levelled off as we headed west. Out over North Bowman street road Cunning banked to the left as we turned back towards the field on our way to Cleveland with three escort ships in our wake.

J. R. "Bud" Harrington, airport manager in his trim Stinson monoplane sailed along on the right, Dr. L. D. Bonar in a biplane on the left and Harold Seaton of Shelby in another ship overhead.

It was a big day for the grinning "boy" whom I sat beside.

"Going to give the folks a last salute," Cunning yelled in my ear.

"Wach this." And we went into a power dive as we zoomed low over the heads of the crowd below.

"Now we'll pick up the Olivesburg road as our first landmark," Cunning told me as he pulled an air map from the pocket along side the seat.

Here I learned that the Olivesburg road was on a direct line to Cleveland and that if it were to go straight ahead that it would run right into the huge airport.

We climbed 1,000 feet and rode along in the perfect weather, with an unlimited ceiling. At Olivesburg, the pilots who had accompanied us rode close, dipped their wings and then banked away to return to the field.

We had a strong crosswind coming in from the west, and Cunning explained that it was necessary to fly at a 45 degree angle towards our goal.

Rolling Along at 100 M.P.H.

We again went into a gradual climb—up to 2,000 and levelled off. We were rolling along smoothly now, the tachometer needle showed 100 miles per hour.

In 10 minutes we were over Nova and on the hazy blue horizon Cunning pointed out the white grain elevators at Grafton.

"That's our mark," he said, "after we reach there we will be able to see the Cleveland airport."

Six minutes later we were flying between Spencer and Wellington and over the W. and L. E. railroad, halfway, and several minutes ahead of schedule.

We passed over Grafton and there in the distance was the huge Cleveland airport that looked like a baseball diamond.

Over the side we could see the autos moving along the highways like bugs crawling on a piece of ribbon that stretched through the fieds of green.

At Grafton we noticed swelling creeks and a few more miles and the land was under water, highways were submerged, and at one place a bridge was gone. The dirty muddy water covered entire fields and trees stuck up like dots of green.

At the terminal we swung around to the east, Cunning looking for the landing T on top of one of the hangars for the wind direction.

There it was and the next thing we knew we had landed and the first air mail from Mansfield was in Cleveland only 39 minutes after it had left the city.

We lingered awhile at the hangar and then made the return trip in 55 minutes, bucking a strong head wind.

STUDIES LETTER

Police Chief Probes New Clue In Cable Slaying.

CANTON —(AP)— Police Chief Ira A. Manderbaugh was to go to Dover today to take possession of a letter written by Mrs. Rose Beiter Cable, 46, just a few hours before she was slain on March 11, 1937.

The letter was addressed to a sister, Mrs. Nettie Thompson of Dover, and related a dispute which Mrs. Cable had had with a relative over financial matters.

commissioned by the government as a temporary mail pilot for the trip, stowed away the air mail and climbed in behind the whirling propellor.

Then amid cheers that went up from the crowd the trim little yellow monoplane taxied to the east end of the field and two minutes later was aloft on the breast of a strong cross wind which helped to speed the ship to Cleveland in 39 minutes, four minutes ahead of schedule.

The same wind retarded the southbound trip to 55 minutes and it was 5:35 when the pilot returned to the field on North Main street after depositing nearly 9,000 specially-cacheted letters from Mansfield and surrounding towns at the Cleveland air mail terminal.

Arm Wound Ends Duel But Fails To Settle Tiff

PARIS—(AP)—Edouard Bourdet, director of La Comedie Francaise, was wounded in the right arm today by Henry Bernstein, veteran playwright, in an "affair of honor" that failed to settle their quarrel.

The principals left the dueling field without reconciliation.

The attending physician said the wound was not serious.

They fought with epees, long pointed blades without cutting edges. Choice of weapons was made by Bernstein, whom the seconds had adjudged the injured party.

Bernstein, charging Bourdet with failing properly to rehearse his current play, had withdrawn that work and his established repertory from the state-owned Comedie Francaise. Bourdet then had written Bernstein, "You acted without scruples, without honor and without loyalty."

COUNTY TRIES AGAIN TO SELL OLD PLANT SITE

Former Browning Engineering Company Property to Go on Auction Block Tomorrow.

Richland county will make a second attempt tomorrow to sell the old Browning Engineering company property in Mansfield to collect $11,368 in delinquent taxes.

The property, consisting of three tracts along the Erie railroad in the northern section of the city, will be offered at sheriff's sale at 10 a. m. at the courthouse. Two other lots will be offered at the same time.

Forced to reduce the appraisal of the property from $15,000 to $9,000, the county treasurer, however, does not expect to collect the entire amount of taxes due on the land. When offered several weeks ago at the higher figure, the property failed to attract bidders.

Bank Holds Title.

The sale order was obtained by County Treasurer John E. Kolb in an action against S. H. Squire, state superintendent of banks in charge of liquidation of the Union Trust company, Cleveland. The bank held title to the property.

The county stands to collect only a part of the back taxes due on a lot in Mansfield which will be sold on a foreclosure judgment against Mrs. Marie A. Lomax. Taxes due on the property, located at Harter and Raleigh avenues, total $839, while the lot is appraised at $350.

A lot in Woodland will be placed on the auction block to satisfy a $237 judgment obtained against Inez Taylor and others by Fred Lewis. The property is appraised at $250.

Britain Acts to Settle Rift Between Italy, France

FRENCH AID TO SPAIN CAUSES NEW TENSION

Rome Tells Paris Shipments of Arms Must Cease or Pact Discussions Will End.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Intensifying its campaign for European appeasement, now threatened by the rift between Italy and France, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's government today sought to untangle the hitch that has developed in the Paris-Rome negotiations.

After a hurried trip across the channel, French Minister of Justice Jaul Reynaud conferred with British Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax regarding the acrimonious argument between Italy and France over Spain's civil war.

Holds Charges True.

It was understood Lord Halifax expressed concern over the recent large increase in war supplies reaching Barcelona across the French frontier. He pointed out Britain's own information bears out some of Italy's charges on this question.

Bringing matters closer to a climax, it was learned that Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano told Lord Perth, British ambassador to Rome, that unless France stops shipping arms over the Pyrenees to the Spanish government, Italy will decline to make any pact with France.

Ciano, it was stated declared that in any event Italy would refuse to give reassurances to France on the dangerous North African and Spanish situations.

While Britain strove to end the animosity between Rome and Paris, these capitals as well as those of Germany, Russia and Czechoslovakia were the scenes of important diplomatic consultations aimed at preserving the props of Europe's peace structure.

Russian attempts to force France to open her frontiers for shipment of supplies to the Spanish government—a maneuver which aroused heated anger in the Fascist nations—left the British government faced with the possibility of being driven into the Rome-Berlin front.

Seen as Peace Threat.

Another alternative was that Britain might be forced into the Franco-Russian front, which would mean complete failure of Chamberlain's policy of making deals with Germany and Italy to keep European peace.

A third possibility was that Russia, should she be resisted by France in giving aid to the Spanish government, might seek a rapprochement with Germany. Fears were expressed here that if such an alliance were formed, Russia could induce Chancellor Hitler to seek territorial acquisitions at the expense of France and Britain.

Vets Form Club To Sound 'Taps' When They Die

SPRINGFIELD—(U.P.)—A "last man's" club of veterans has been organized here with an arrangement for the donation of a special bugle to be inscribed with the names of 100 members over whose graves it eventually will be used to sound taps.

Russell Rouch, president of the organization, which started with 12 members and now has 49, said it was patterned along lines of old Civil War veteran organizations which met annually to drink a toast to companions-in-arms who had died during preceding years.

All present members are World War veterans except an associate member, C. W. Needle, last man of the old Grand Army of the Republic post here. The last survivor of the Spanish-American War veterans post here will be made an associate in years to come, Rouch said.

The club has applied for a state charter which limits its membership to 100.

Up and Down THE STREET

After signing hundreds of special covers for the Mansfield-Cleveland air mail flight today, Postmaster Herman E. Homberger bought a rubber stamp bearing his signature to save his right arm from further punishment. The signature may not have been as personal as stamp collectors wanted, but it went a long way to relieve the pressure of too much "popularity" at once, Homberger contended.

The air mail letter leaving Mansfield yesterday and destined for the longest trip was addressed to Mrs. Mildred Campbell, Norfolk Island, by way of Sydney, Australia. It was sent by Mrs. Louis J. Ott, Woodhill road, whose correspondence with the English woman in that remote corner of the world has enlisted the interest of hundreds of Mansfielders. The letter will go on the China Clipper as far as Sydney, where it will be transferred to the monthly mail boat for the last 1,000 miles to the lonely island.

On March 21, Wilmore flew to Miami Beach, where he fished in the Gulf stream. One of his prize catches was a 40 pound sailfish, which measured six feet and 11 inches. He hooked it off Largo Key. Membership in the club was conferred on Wilmore by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, president of the Eastern Air Lines.

The clusters are made up of more than a dozen blooms each. Unlike the bushes of the mountains, it has not grown high, but has spread out, close to the ground.

NEW DEAL GETS TEST IN OREGON

State Chooses Between Foe of Labor Board and Staunch Roosevelt Supporter.

(By United Press)

PORTLAND—New Deal prestige was at stake today in the Oregon primary, where Gov Charles H. Martin, outspoken foe of the National Labor Relations board and the department of labor, was opposed in his campaign for the Democratic renomination by Henry L. Hess, a staunch New Deal follower.

Although Martin campaigned as a "friend of President Roosevelt," Hess had the oral support of Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, who denounced Martin as "not a New Dealer," and of Sen. George W. Norris of Nebraska.

A third candidate for the Democratic nomination, O. Henry Oleen, was conceded slight chance.

Each party also is nominating two candidates to the U. S. senate. For the regular senate term, Democrats will choose between Willis Mahoney and Carl Bonaugh, U. S. attorney. Both pledged themselves to support Mr. Roosevelt. Republican candidates are: Rufus C. Holman, state treasurer, and Robert N. Stanfield, former senator.

A short senate term, to extend from the November election until next January, also is being filed as a result of the resignation of Sen. Frederick Steiwar. The seat presently is held by Sen. Evans Reames, a Democrat, who was appointed to serve until November. The Democrats have nominated Robert A Miller to the short term without opposition.

'MEN WANTED' SIGNS POSSIBLE IN 6 MONTHS, WEIR DECLARES

(By United Press)

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—Ernest Weir, National Steel corporation chairman and New Deal critic, today offered a solution to the country's economic ailments in a seven-point recovery program which he explained here

Speaking before the West Virginia Chamber of Commerce last night, Weir said it was possible that "Men Wanted" signs would be hanging from factory doors within six months if the federal government would "aid and encourage private enterprise."

He blamed the Roosevelt administration for the present depression. He termed talk of a "recession" as ridiculous, saying that "this is a depression—serious, deep-rooted and progressive."

Weir's own program for recovery includes:

"Restore confidence by an unqualified pledge to retain unaltered the principles and structure of the American systems of business and of government

"Declare a permanent policy with regard to basic economic controls.

"Amend tax laws to eliminate punitive and crippling provisions

"Amend the labor laws so that they shall be fair and apply with equal force to the employer, all employes and labor organizations

"Remove threats of government competition such as the one overhanging utilities.

"Cease attacks on business, provide a leadership under which all the people can unite.

"Make this program clear and then stick to it."

Weir said that he believed hope of "a change of heart" by the national administration was waning.

FILES APPEAL

Suspended Newark Daily Asks Permit to Reorganize.

NEWARK—The Newark Daily News, which suspended publication Wednesday, today filed a petition in federal district court in Columbus, asking permission to reorganize under Section 77-B of the federal bankruptcy act.

The action listed assets of $91,116 and liabilities of the same amount. It stated that all tangible assets were under mortgage to Richard H. Shafer to secure a $10,000 loan.

It is reported that on April 27 the company defaulted in payment of principal and interest due Shafer and principal and interest due Harry Payne and James C. McElfresh on unsecured notes for $10,500.

Appointment of Col. G. L. Yearick as temporary trustee was requested.

The Daily News began publication five months ago, under the direction of F. R. Dickel and C. F. Frye, both formerly associated with the Sandusky Daily News.

CAPTURES CITY, MAPS DRIVE ON HANKOW SECTOR

Japs Hunt 'Dare to Die' Squads Refusing to Retreat; China Refutes Claims.

SHANGHAI—Triumphant Japanese soldiers raised their Rising Sun flag over Suchow today and talked of a drive on Hankow, emergency capital of the Chinese government.

Mopping up squads searched for isolated Chinese suicide squads, who had elected to remain in the city and die rather than retreat.

A Japanese spokesman asserted here that Japanese marines had been landed at Lienyunkang, coastal terminus of the east-west Lunghai railroad for which Suchow of a junction point, and had met severe Chinese resistance.

China Denies Defeat.

Chinese, refusing to concede that the Japanese had won a big victory—and even denying the loss of Suchow—asserted that in the northwest they had won a victory which would eclipse any that Japan might win in the Suchow area.

They asserted that their troops had retaken the city of Kinsiang, which a strong Japanese army had captured on its way south from the Yellow river to occupy Kweiteh, 90 miles west of Suchow on the Lunghai railroad

It was alleged that the Japanese were in flight.

The Japanese were jubilant at their capture of Suchow which had cost them so many months of fighting and so many thousands of dead.

They admitted that the main Chinese army had escaped a trap laid for it, but said they had taken 7,000 prisoners in the last 36 hours.

Meanwhile in Hankow, Chinese crews of two big American-made bombing planes given a triumphal welcome when they returned from what Chinese army aviation headquarters described as a flight over western Japan in which leaflets were dropped instead of Bombs.

The airmen were said to have covered 2,500 miles, the longest non-stop flight ever made by Chinese fliers. Their homecoming occurred at Hankow airdrome, which presumably was their point of departure. The leaflets urged the Japanese people to oppose the invasion of China.

FAIR ENOUGH!

It's Time Mussolini and Hitler Grew Up, Learned Something of Manners

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Well, maybe some of our public officials have run off at the lip a little too freely of late about the native American abhorrence of war and dictatorships, but Mussolini and Hitler should be the last men in the world to complain of that. They love to dish it, and anyone who makes a practice of dishing it out must expect to take it in his turn.

Mussolini and Hitler have been making dirty cracks about us and Britain, France, Russia and Czechoslovakia for years, and it is not so long since they were talking the same way about each other or each other's people, which amounts to the same thing.

It is written in Hitler's own creed, that the Italians—anyway, the southern Italians—are a low race because they are dark-eyed and dark-complexioned and have short legs. Marriage between a blond, blue-eyed, long-legged Nazi and an Italian of this description was condemned as something in the nature of miscegenation, or race defilement, on the ground that the Mediterranean races, which include many Italians, had a touch of the tar brush.

For extra the Nazis took a roundhouse swing at the proud Roman beek, or schnozzle, declaring it to be a mark of racial inferiority and knowing that the aquiline nose of the romans is so called because it resembles the beak of an eagle

There was rivalry between Mussolini and Hitler at the time. Mussolini personally despised Hitler as an imitator and had received a bad impression of Hitler when Adolf visited Rome to pick up ideas. They and their press—which, of course, speak their ideas and say nothing without permission—were sneering back and forth across Austria, and you can find in the old files many insults which make the angriest remarks of our statesmen and propagandists about them and their systems sound like the love murmurs of an infatuated sophomore.

I was wondering what private thoughts old King Victor Emmanuel had when he met Hitler in Rome the other day, remembering what Hitler had said about the inferiority of short-legged and hook-nosed people, because the king is so short his feet barely reach the ground and his nose, as the pictures clearly show, has an elbow about four inches from the tip.

Mussolini was dishing, too, at the time, and most of what they dished was so silly and childish that the rational peoples of the world found it hard to believe that such nasty, petulant remarks could represent the official opinions of nations claiming to be great and demanding to be treated with respect.

The dishing in Italy at the time the League of Nations voted the sanctions, or boycott, against Italy for a flat violation of an agreement sounded like the raging of a spoiled brat in a tantrum. Mussolini and his journalists insulted every statesman and every nation on the list of sanctionists, and I heard the Duce deliver one speech to a lot of poor, muddy peasants in which he stamped around exactly like a pampered little boy in a rage and at times went off into screams. I never saw an orator make such a spectacle of himself.

Now, it does seem an absurd way for nations to act toward one another, and I think we lower ourselves to let them make the rules of repartee for us and draw us into spats. But they began this kind of thing, and we in this country have no idea of the dirty things which they have been saying about us for years, because most of it has been too foul for the American editorial taste. And, although the American outbursts have done our dignity no good, it may not be a bad idea to let them know that they are supposed to be grown up now and are expected to develop some civil manners.

During their recent childhood they got away with much offensive conduct for the same reason that unruly children are allowed to impose on the patience of their elders. They always talk war. Well, this country certainly doesn't want a war and isn't in shape for one, and it is ghastly to think that a lot of mouth might have such dreadful consequences.

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Claire Trevor's the best proof in town that a bit in a "big" picture is worth more to an actress than starring roles in the "little ones."

Blond Miss Trevor for five years has been the B-Queen at 20th Century-Fox. Her pictures haven't cost big money, and they've made quite a bit. But they weren't using her in the big ones until she did that one-sequence role in "Dead End" on loan to Goldwyn. Warner's got interested, she's done "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse" and "Valley of the Giants" for them, and she'll make that her studio home with a few outside pictures annually.

Incidentally, if B-ing turns out "queens" like Trevor, more studios ought to make their stars serve apprenticeships. The girl is as easy to get along with now as she was when she dropped from Ernest Truex's stage play, "Whistling in the Dark," into a screen test—and she's a much better actress besides.

Jean Parker looks comically demure these days for her role in "Romance of the the Limberlost." Period thing, turn-of-the-century and rural, so Jean wears a hat with rooster feathers, a weird dress and high-buttoned boots.

The costume didn't suggest ballet, but that's what she talked about mostly between scenes She's studying it, two lessons a week, and what's more, a ballet movie may come out of it. Jean's interest attracted to the subject her husband, George MacDonald, former newspaperman, and with Jesse Lasky, jr., he has written a ballet story, young Lasky being an avid student of the art.

Imagination takes a spring flight at the New Universal, as witness this from a studio bulletin board:

"Memo — To All Department Heads—From Charles R. Rogers

"Please be advised that the College Series will be entitled as follows—

'Freshman Year'

(Signed) Charles R. Rogers."

Fritz Lang, who directed Sylvia Sidney and George Raft in "You and Me," gives credit where it's due.

"Acting and directing are two entirely separate phases of picture-making. Therefore all credit for a fine piece of acting should go to the actor. Naturally it is the director who paces the picture and endeavors to secure an effective blend of performances that will result in a quality production. But he can't, no matter how hard he tries, draw from an actor a performance beyond that individual's own emotional ability. All glory for acting should go to the actors."

Miss Sidney recently averred in print that Hollywood had no actors as such. Mr. Lang, asked if he might be replying to Miss Sidney, was quite sure that he was not.

Today's pronunciation lesson: Dan-yell Dare-you will do for the new French star . . . Carol (at Christmas) is good enough for Lombard, despite the "e."...Mesha Hour (as on the clock) is best for the funniest Russian...Marlay-nah (if you must be fawncy) for Dietrich, which is DEE-trick and not Dee-trish or Deet-rich... But Marleen will do....See-moan See-Moan, of course for the double-talk gal...Ree-go for the Argentine Rigaud...Eesa (as in eesa-on-the-eyes) for Miranda.

Bashful Lad Seeks Miss Lee's Advice

By VIRGINIA LEE

I was talking with a friend today and she was telling me her experience with some young people who live in her neighborhood. She has no children of her own, and although she is middleaged, she has had no experience with children or young people, and so she actually believed what she had heard about young folk being given over entirely to drinking and carousing.

These young college men, she found to her amazement, smoked very little, drank very little, worked hard, had their recreation time all planned with so much for tennis, so much for golf, so much for swimming, etc. They were so "clean cut," she kept telling me. She had no idea modern young people were like that.

Of course I feel very sorry for anyone who has had no chance to know young people. I've always had them around and had such good times with them. When I came back to my typewriter I opened a letter on my desk and this is what I read:

"DEAR MISS LEE: I am a boy 18 years old. Two years ago, when I was in school, I fell in love with a girl about my age. I never dated her or talked to her because I did not know how to go about it, and I still don't. What I mean is I don't know what to say or do and I am always speechless. I am also very shy and bashful. Please help me with my troubles: I STILL LOVE HER. A READER."

In a postscript he tells that his face gets as red as fire from bashfulness. Sophistication? My word.

Bashfulness comes because you are very conscious of yourself, my lad, and the way to overcome it is to make yourself go places and do things and acquire interests until you forget about yourself and gain poise.

It takes courage to fight it, this trouble. I know. But I know you are not going to let a thing like your own bashfulness spoil your chances of getting to know this girl and asking for her company. Your troubles are things you yourself can control. You can, of course, just say you are shy and your face gets red when you try to talk, and that, therefore, you are not going out, and you are not going to ask this girl for a date. But I don't believe you are going to let the other fellows take her away right from under your nose. A thing that is worth having is worth fighting for, even if it means fighting yourself—your handicaps, which, after all, are not handicaps. You are sensitive but self-centered, but as you grow older you will grow less so, and you can make up your mind you are not going to lose out just because you happen to blush easily. Let me know how you are getting along.

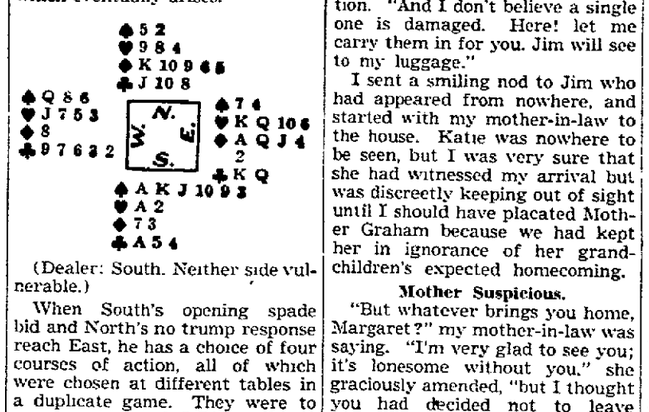
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

KEEP LOOKING AHEAD

You have to keep looking ahead in this bridge game. If you judge your every act by what seems best at the moment, without preparing to cross the later bridges likely to be met, you may find yourself unable to cope with the problem which eventually arises.



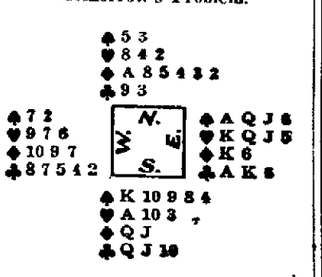
(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

When South's opening spade bid and North's no trump response reach East, he has a choice of four courses of action, all of which were chosen at different tables in a duplicate game. They were to pass, double, bid 2-Diamonds or bid 2-Hearts.

Where East passed, South bid 2-Spades. This passed to East, who bid 3-Diamonds and was set three tricks. Where East doubled, the ensuing developments were exactly the same. Where he bid 2-Diamonds over the 1-No Trump, South called 2-Spades as before, and this passed to East. He didn't like to try 3-Hearts over it, as that would have forced his partner to the four range in order to show diamond preference. So he rebid diamonds at three, and was set three just like the others.

The one forward looking player called 2-Hearts over the 1-No Trump, so that he could safely show his other suit later. South bid 2-Spades. When East called 3-Diamonds over that, West shifted to 3-Hearts. This also was set, but only by one trick, as at least the side had got into the right suit.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

After South bids 1-Spade and North 2-Diamonds on this deal, what should East do?

In making cake, sour milk may be used the same as sweet milk, if one-third teaspoon of soda is added to each cup of sour milk.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Mother Graham had been gathering flowers, her favorite avocation, but when she saw me drive into the roadway, she dropped them all as she lifted her hands in astonishment. Cosmos, zinnias, asters and marigolds lay around her in a riot of color, and I sprang from my car and stooped for the flowers as soon as I had given her a hasty kiss.

"What a wealth of blossoms, Mother!" I exclaimed, and, indeed, they were well worth an ejaculation. "And I don't believe a single one is damaged. Here! let me carry them in for you. Jim will see to my luggage."

I sent a smiling nod to Jim who had appeared from nowhere, and started with my mother-in-law to the house. Katie was nowhere to be seen, but I was very sure that she had witnessed my arrival but was discreetly keeping out of sight until I should have placated Mother Graham because we had kept her in ignorance of her grandchildren's expected homecoming.

Mother Suspicious.

"But whatever brings you home, Margaret?" my mother-in-law was saying. "I'm very glad to see you; it's lonesome without you," she graciously amended, "but I thought you had decided not to leave Mary until rehearsals, except when—"

She stopped short and turned a dour face to me.

"Is that it?" she asked frigidly. "Are my grandchildren coming home? And I have not been notified."

The mercury in my mental thermometer shot downward. Nobody knew better than I how difficult my mother-in-law can be when she considers herself offended. I had counted upon telling her the news of the children's forthcoming arrival in my own way, painting it as a surprise, but her keen brain had scented a deception, and was preparing to feed her anger upon it.

Just what to do I did not know, but I grasped at the first straw which my mental vision glimpsed.

"There's no fooling that keen brain of yours, is there, Mother?" I said, filling my voice and face with admiration. "I had planned to have the children's coming a surprise to you, but you have guessed it the first thing. I might as well have told you right away."

She was softened a bit by the flattery, but she had the look of one ferreting out something. And then she broke out angrily.

"That ape of a Katie must have known! That's the reason for her stewing that pumpkin and making those little cakes. I thought she'd struck too industrious a streak for her. Why did you let her know and not me? If that's your notion of a surprise—"

"But it isn't," I said hastily. "And I didn't tell Katie first."

"Then how did she know?" she retorted. "Do you mean that Mrs. Bickett dared to send a letter announcing the homecoming of my grandchildren to that ape instead of to me?"

Wouldn't Insult Her.

"Indeed she did nothing of the kind," I said with simulating indignation. "You know Katherine would never offer you a studied insult like that would have been."

"Then how?" she demanded, bristling still, but not as truculent as she had been, and I put the flowers in the crook of one arm, and the other round her waist.

"Mother, dear!" I pleaded, "Please don't pass judgment until I tell you how it all happened. Won't you come up on the veranda—the sun is wonderful there—so different from the city — and sit down while I talk to you? I'm sure you'll forgive me when you know everything."

"I'll listen to you," she said grudgingly, and it was with faint spirit that I seated myself by her side and began the explanation I had promised Katie I would give her.

"I have always told Katie that she never must disturb you when you are asleep," I began, and she nodded approval.

"To do her justice, she never does," she said, and I took my next step falteringly.

"I have also told her," I said, "that if a telegram came for me, and there was no one else around, she was to open it and read it."

One of the best methods of growing ferns is to place the potted plant in a jardiniere just a little larger than the pot holding the fern. The space between is then filled with peat moss, which is kept constantly moist.

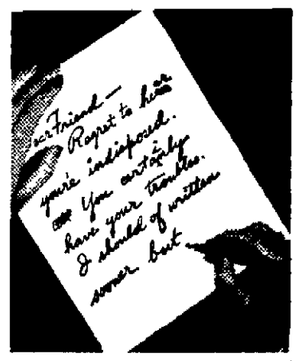
Letters Play Large Part In Your Social Life.



Be Sure of Spelling, Grammar.

The letter you mailed today. Will it strengthen a friendship tie? Make a good impression on a new acquaintance? Win a job?

Or will the person who receives it say, "How CAN any one write such a pitiful, blundering little note!"

Play safe. Follow these friend-winning rules:

1. Address your friends by name. "Dear Mrs. Stanley" or "Dear Nancy." Nobody writes "Dear Friend" any more.

2. Avoid stiff-sounding phrases like "Regret you're indisposed." Be natural. Say, "I'm so sorry you're ill."

Send 10c for your copy of "Good Letter-Writing Made Easy" to The Mansfield News-Journal, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your Name, Address, and the Name of booklet.

AUNT JENNY SAYS— HERE'S A SAVORY, SATISFYING MEAL FOR A HUNGRY MAN— STEAK AND ONION PIE TRY

STEAK AND ONION PIE

1 cup onions, sliced
¼ cup Spry
1 pound round steak, cut in small pieces
⅓ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
Dash of ginger
Dash of allspice
2½ cups boiling water
2 cups raw potatoes, diced
1 recipe One-crust Pie

Cook onions slowly in melted Spry until yellow. Remove onions. Roll meat in mixture of flour and seasonings and spices. Brown in hot Spry. Add boiling water, cover, and simmer until meat is tender (about 1 hour). Add potatoes and cook 10 minutes longer (Notice how wonderfully tasty the seasoning is—how digestible the meat, browned in all-vegetable Spry.)

Roll dough into a circle about ⅛-inch thick. Make several small openings for steam to escape. Pour meat into 8-inch casserole greased with Spry. Lay cooked onions on top. Fit pastry over top and seal edge of pie. Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Serves 6. But remember for extra-flaky, tender pastry like this, be sure to use Spry.

ONE-CRUST PIE

1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup Spry
3 tablespoons water (about)

Sift flour and salt together. Add ⅓ of Spry and cut in until mixture is as fine as corn meal (Takes no time with this fast-creaming shortening.) Add remaining Spry and continue cutting until particles are size of a navy bean. Sprinkle water, 1 tablespoon at a time, over mixture. With a fork, work lightly together until a dough is formed.

(All measurements in these recipes are level)

(Clip and save this Spry recipe)

TRY SPRY for lighter cakes, crispier fried foods, too

NOTICE how much faster Spry creams when you mix a cake. Cooking experts for 281 home-making schools say it's the creamiest shortening they ever used.

Wonderful for frying, too. Foods are crisper, tastier, so digestible a child can eat them. Get Spry today. Serve this tasty Meat Pie tonight!

EXTRA GOOD if you do these two things
BROWN YOUR MEAT IN Spry FIRST TO KEEP IN THE JUICY GOODNESS
USE Spry IN THE CRUST TO MAKE IT FLAKIER AND MORE TENDER

Spry In 6-lb., 3-lb., and 1-lb. cans The new, purer ALL-vegetable shortening

Bashful Lad Seeks Miss Lee's Advice

By VIRGINIA LEE

I was talking with a friend today and she was telling me her experience with some young people who live in her neighborhood. She has no children of her own, and although she is middleaged, she has had no experience with children or young people, and so she actually believed what she had heard about young folk being given over entirely to drinking and carousing.

These young college men, she found to her amazement, smoked very little, drank very little, worked hard, had their recreation time all planned with so much for tennis, so much for golf, so much for swimming, etc. They were so "clean cut," she kept telling me. She had no idea modern young people were like that.

Of course I feel very sorry for anyone who has had no chance to know young people. I've always had them around and had such good times with them. When I came back to my typewriter I opened a letter on my desk and this is what I read:

"DEAR MISS LEE: I am a boy 18 years old. Two years ago, when I was in school, I fell in love with a girl about my age. I never dated her or talked to her because I did not know how to go about it, and I still don't. What I mean is I don't know what to say or do and I am always speechless. I am also very shy and bashful. Please help me with my troubles: I STILL LOVE HER. A READER."

In a postscript he tells that his face gets as red as fire from bashfulness. Sophistication? My word.

Bashfulness comes because you are very conscious of yourself, my lad, and the way to overcome it is to make yourself go places and do things and acquire interests until you forget about yourself and gain poise.

It takes courage to fight it, this trouble, I know. But I know you are not going to let a thing like your own bashfulness spoil your chances of getting to know this girl and asking for her company. Your troubles are things you yourself can control. You can, of course, just say you are shy and your face gets red when you try to talk, and that, therefore, you are not going out, and you are not going to ask this girl for a date. But I don't believe you are going to let the other fellows take her away right from under your nose. A thing that is worth having is worth fighting for, even if it means fighting yourself—your handicaps, which, after all, are not handicaps. You are sensitive but self-centered, but as you grow older you will grow less so, and you can make up your mind you are not going to lose out just because you happen to blush easily. Let me know how you are getting along.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, May 21.

A VERY enterprising and lively day is forecast from the predominant sidereal activities. Sudden and surprising changes loom in connection with very important propositions, which will require much initiative and constructive effort. If these be brought to bear with energy, attention to details and intensive application, there will be excellent results in stabilizing the affairs. Personal associations also have aspects for solidity and satisfaction.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of much surprising activity, with new matters and much initiative developing in connection with solid projects or new undertakings having important bearing on stabilizing the future. Unexpected travel and change are in order, and worthwhile achievement depends on a constructive grasp of sound opportunities.

A child born on this day may be energetic, constructive, persistent and responsible, while at the same time being friendly, congenial and popular.

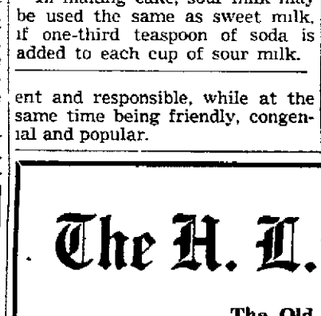
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

KEEP LOOKING AHEAD

You have to keep looking ahead in this bridge game. If you judge your every act by what seems best at the moment, without preparing to cross the later bridges likely to be met, you may find yourself unable to cope with the problem which eventually arises.



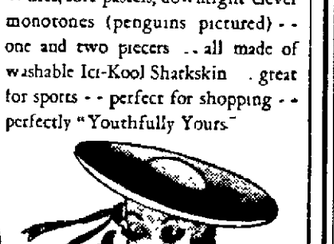
(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

When South's opening spade bid and North's no trump response reach East, he has a choice of four courses of action, all of which were chosen at different tables in a duplicate game. They were to pass, double, bid 2-Diamonds or bid 2-Hearts.

Where East passed, South bid 2-Spades. This passed to East, who bid 3-Diamonds and was set three tricks. Where East doubled, the ensuing developments were exactly the same. Where he bid 2-Diamonds over the 1-No Trump, South called 2-Spades as before, and this passed to East. He didn't like to try 3-Hearts over it, as that would have forced his partner to the four range in order to show diamond preference. So he rebid diamonds at three, and was set three just like the others.

The one forward looking player called 2-Hearts over the 1-No Trump, so that he could safely show his other suit later. South bid 2-Spades. When East called 3-Diamonds over that, West shifted to 3-Hearts. This also was set, but only by one trick, as at least the side had got into the right suit.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

After South bids 1-Spade and North 2-Diamonds on this deal, what should East do?

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Mother Graham had been gathering flowers, her favorite avocation, but when she saw me drive into the roadway, she dropped them all as she lifted her hands in astonishment. Cosmos, zinnias, asters and marigolds lay around her in a riot of color, and I sprang from my car and stooped for the flowers as soon as I had given her a hasty kiss.

"What a wealth of blossoms, Mother!" I exclaimed, and, indeed, they were well worth an ejaculation. "And I don't believe a single one is damaged. Here! let me carry them in for you. Jim will see to my luggage."

I sent a smiling nod to Jim who had appeared from nowhere, and started with my mother-in-law to the house. Katie was nowhere to be seen, but I was very sure that she had witnessed my arrival but was discreetly keeping out of sight until I should have placated Mother Graham because we had kept her in ignorance of her grandchildren's expected homecoming.

Mother Suspicious.

"But whatever brings you home, Margaret?" my mother-in-law was saying. "I'm very glad to see you; it's lonesome without you," she graciously amended, "but I thought you had decided not to leave Mary until rehearsals, except when—"

She stopped short and turned a dour face to me.

"Is that it?" she asked frigidly. "Are my grandchildren coming home? And I have not been notified."

The mercury in my mental thermometer shot downward. Nobody knew better than I how difficult my mother-in-law can be when she considers herself offended. I had counted upon telling her the news of the children's forthcoming arrival in my own way, painting it as a surprise, but her keen brain had scented a deception, and was preparing to feed her anger upon it.

Just what to do I did not know, but I grasped at the first straw which my mental vision glimpsed.

"There's no fooling that keen brain of yours, is there, Mother?" I said, filling my voice and face with admiration. "I had planned to have the children's coming a surprise to you, but you have guessed it the first thing. I might as well have told you right away."

She was softened a bit by the flattery, but she had the look of one ferreting out something. And then she broke out angrily.

"That ape of a Katie must have known! That's the reason for her stewing that pumpkin and making those little cakes. I thought she'd struck too industrious a streak for her. Why did you let her know and not me? If that's your notion of a surprise—"

"But it isn't," I said hastily. "And I didn't tell Katie first."

"Then how did she know?" she retorted. "Do you mean that Mrs. Bickett dared to send a letter announcing the homecoming of my grandchildren to that ape instead of to me?"

Wouldn't Insult Her.

"Indeed she did nothing of the kind," I said with simulating indignation. "You know Katherine would never offer you a studied insult like that would have been."

"Then how?" she demanded, bristling still, but not as truculent as she had been, and I put the flowers in the crook of one arm, and the other round her waist.

"Mother, dear!" I pleaded, "Please don't pass judgment until I tell you how it all happened. Won't you come up on the veranda—the sun is wonderful there—so different from the city — and sit down while I talk to you? I'm sure you'll forgive me when you know everything."

"I'll listen to you," she said grudgingly, and it was with faint spirit that I seated myself by her side and began the explanation I had promised Katie I would give her.

"I have always told Katie that she never must disturb you when you are asleep," I began, and she nodded approval.

"To do her justice, she never does," she said, and I took my next step falteringly.

"I have also told her," I said, "that if a telegram came for me, and there was no one else around, she was to open it and read it."

One of the best methods of growing ferns is to place the potted plant in a jardiniere just a little larger than the pot holding the fern. The space between is then filled with peat moss, which is kept constantly moist.

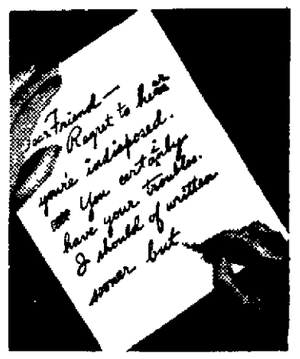
Letters Play Large Part In Your Social Life.



Be Sure of Spelling, Grammar.

The letter you mailed today. Will it strengthen a friendship tie? Make a good impression on a new acquaintance? Win a job?

Or will the person who receives it say, "How CAN any one write such a pitiful, blundering little note!"

Play safe. Follow these friend-winning rules:

1. Address your friends by name, "Dear Mrs. Stanley" or "Dear Nancy." Nobody writes "Dear Friend" any more.

2. Avoid stiff-sounding phrases like "Regret you're indisposed." Be natural. Say, "I'm so sorry you're ill."

AUNT JENNY SAYS—
HERE'S A SAVORY, SATISFYING MEAL FOR A HUNGRY MAN—
STEAK AND ONION PIE
TRY
EASY TO MAKE
takes only 1 lb. round steak
—serves 6

STEAK AND ONION PIE

1 cup onions, sliced
¼ cup Spry
1 pound round steak, cut in small pieces
⅓ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
Dash of ginger
Dash of allspice
2½ cups boiling water
2 cups raw potatoes, diced
1 recipe One-crust Pie

Cook onions slowly in melted Spry until yellow. Remove onions. Roll meat in mixture of flour and seasonings and spices. Brown in hot Spry. Add boiling water, cover, and simmer until meat is tender (about 1 hour). Add potatoes and cook 10 minutes longer. (Notice how wonderfully tasty the seasoning is—how digestible the meat, browned in all-vegetable Spry.)

Roll dough into a circle about ⅛-inch thick. Make several small openings for steam to escape. Pour meat into 8-inch casserole greased with Spry. Lay cooked onions on top. Fit pastry over top and seal edge of pie. Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Serves 6. But remember, for extra-flaky, tender pastry like this, be sure to use Spry.

ONE-CRUST PIE

1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup Spry
3 tablespoons water (about)

Sift flour and salt together. Add ½ of Spry and cut in until mixture is as fine as corn meal (Takes no time with this fast-creaming shortening.) Add remaining Spry and continue cutting until particles are size of a navy bean. Sprinkle water, 1 tablespoon at a time, over mixture. With a fork, work lightly together until a dough is formed.

(All measurements in these recipes are level)

(Clip and save this Spry recipe)

TRY SPRY for lighter cakes, crisper fried foods, too

NOTICE how much faster Spry creams when you mix a cake. Cooking experts for 281 home-making schools say it's the creamiest shortening they ever used.

Wonderful for frying, too. Foods are crisper, tastier, so digestible a child can eat them. Get Spry today. Serve this tasty Meat Pie tonight!

BROWN YOUR MEAT IN Spry FIRST TO KEEP IN THE JUICY GOODNESS

Hunter Makes Record Catch. Saves Lives of 800 Deer.

WINDERMERE, B. C.—(FP)—Martin Morigeau, resident of the Kootenay Indian reserve, may consider he saved the lives of 800 deer last winter. He brought in the pelts of 16 cougars, considered a record catch for one season. The government pays a $20 bounty for every cougar, which is estimated to kill annually 50 deer.

CHAPTER X

"That's right, dear. Don't worry too much. Everything will come out all right, I know. Why don't you go upstairs and bathe your face in cold water then lie down and rest until supper is ready? I'll tell the children what has happened, so you won't have to speak of it. Try to pull yourself together."

"They'll know all about it," Larry remarked somewhat bitterly, as she rose to her feet. "I'll bet you everybody knows by this time."

As she went up the back stairs, she wondered if Mr. Odell knew. That's who he was, now . . . not "Clay." Already, she was rather dreading to see him again. And she would have to. He wasn't the sort of a man who would see an injustice like this done without trying to do something to remedy it. He would be almost sure to consider it his fault. It was his fault. But that wasn't going to make things any easier.

Muriel had the tidings first from Mrs. Layne and, while they were discussing the matter, young Griff came home from work.

"Oh, I heard it!" he exclaimed glumly, when his mother started to break the news. "It's all over the mill by now, I reckon. One of the boys saw the kid beating it with her clothes under her arm. He went and told Wilbur Grant and Wilbur came to me about it. I could guess what happened. Didn't I tell you so, just last night? You can't put anything like that over on the old boss."

"I know," his mother interposed hastily. "But be careful what you say to Larry. Both of you. The poor child's dreadfully upset right now."

"Oh, I won't rub it in," Griff promised.

He was as good as his word when he took his place at the table, pausing behind Larry long enough to give her a pat on the arm. A gesture so unusual that quick tears sprang to his sister's eyes. So long as one had "folks," she thought, it didn't much matter what happened. Muriel said nothing about it, but there was a sympathy in her quiet eyes.

"What are you going to do, Mums . . . having me around under foot all day?" Larry demanded suddenly, trying to ease the tension.

"Why, I'll like it very much," was the prompt answer. "There is so much I'd like to get done before school begins. With both of you girls to help me . . ."

"I think you've got something there," Griff grinned approvingly. "Since I'm the only breadwinner left in the family, I'll expect to be relieved of all household duties from now on."

He was the first to leave the table. While the three women still lingered at their places, Griff suddenly protruded his head through the dining-room door with an impudent grin for Larry.

"Say, Kid! Old Romeo Grant's parking his chariot out front . . . Maybe all isn't lost yet!"

Clayton Odell roused himself with a start at Wardlaw's calm information that Hilary Layne no longer worked for him.

"Would you mind saying that again?" he managed in amazement.

"I thought I said it plainly enough," his uncle remarked irritably. "I told you that I discharged that Layne girl this afternoon."

"Why?"

"I don't usually go into reasons when I decide to dispense with anybody's services. I sent her a notice and a week's salary, which was fair enough in her case. I don't mind telling you that I had been tempted to do it before. She's too flighty and irresponsible. If it hadn't been for the fact that her father worked for me a long time, I would have let her out long ago. But there's a limit to everything."

"So it seems," the younger man countered grimly. "I assume that her friendship for me didn't help her standing any."

"Well, I certainly had no intention of letting her disrupt the office by carrying on an affair with you. You'll thank me for it some day."

"I'd thank you right now, if you had waited until I got back!" Clay was trying to hold his anger in check. "You have put me on a tough spot. I don't mind it for myself. But I do mind very seriously such an act of utter injustice . . . to Miss Layne. I just told you I had spoken to her of a new arrangement in her work. She not only agreed to it, but was counting on it."

"Doubtless," was Romulus' dry comment.

"It was unjust and altogether uncalled for. If you didn't like my plan, then you should have told me before taking any action like that. You can't make me believe but that Miss Layne would still have her job, otherwise."

"Which is immaterial," his uncle reminded. "I've just told you that you were free to go ahead with the new system. Hire somebody, if you have to. I make no stipulation, except you find a man . . . and don't pay him any more than you must, to begin with."

"Sorry. I'm not interested." Clay rose to his feet and stared down at the small figure in the armchair.

"I don't see any reason for being dramatic," Wardlaw snapped.

"Nor do I," came the cool answer. "I don't see any reason for being or doing anything in particular."

"What do you mean?"

"Simply that we can't go on. Your idea of business seems to be domineering everyone that works for you. I don't say it hasn't done well enough for you. But it isn't my way of doing business. Moreover, it isn't going to be."

"Come, come . . ."

"No, I think I'll finish this. It will help me, if it doesn't . . . anybody else. If you will stop to think, you must see that what you did this afternoon puts a finish to my usefulness. As soon as the story gets around. I will be set down as a high-priced office boy. You expected me to carry considerable responsibility in the business, and you proceed to cut the ground out from under my feet in the first thirty days."

"See, here, Clayton . . ."

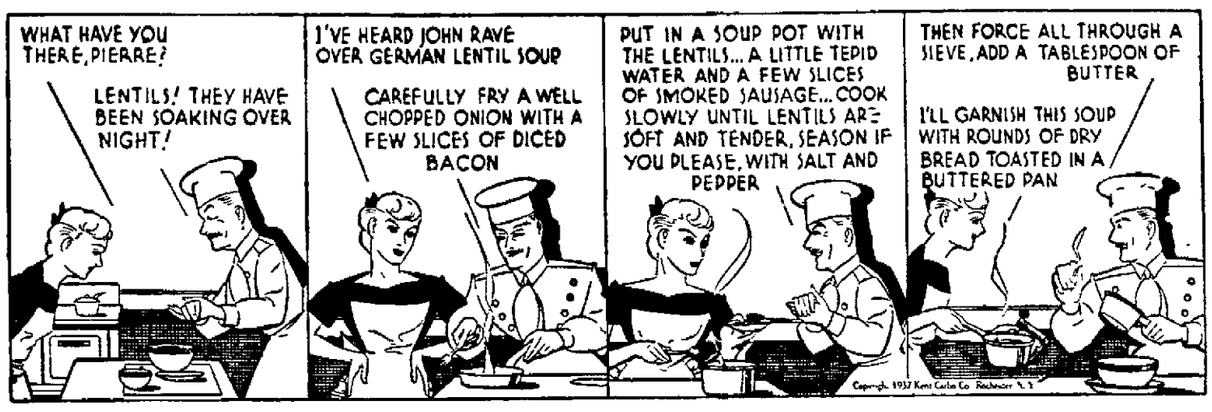
PIERRE'S RECIPES— A Weekly Market Feature



WHAT HAVE YOU THERE, PIERRE?
LENTILS! THEY HAVE BEEN SOAKING OVER NIGHT!
I'VE HEARD JOHN RAVE OVER GERMAN LENTIL SOUP
CAREFULLY FRY A WELL CHOPPED ONION WITH A FEW SLICES OF DICED BACON
PUT IN A SOUP POT WITH THE LENTILS... A LITTLE TEPID WATER AND A FEW SLICES OF SMOKED SAUSAGE... COOK SLOWLY UNTIL LENTILS ARE SOFT AND TENDER, SEASON IF YOU PLEASE, WITH SALT AND PEPPER
THEN FORCE ALL THROUGH A SIEVE, ADD A TABLESPOON OF BUTTER
I'LL GARNISH THIS SOUP WITH ROUNDS OF DRY BREAD TOASTED IN A BUTTERED PAN

BERRIES 'PEP UP' FRUIT MARKET, WATERMELONS ALSO AVAILABLE

New berries and watermelon pepped up the fruit market this week, with blueberries and red raspberries promised for Saturday and Georgia watermelons now in stock. The berries are California grown.

There will be cantaloupes and the first of the new crop of honeyball melons The strawberries are coming nearer home each week, and right now they are being sent here from Marietta growers Peaches and pineapple, and Bing cherries are also among the southern fruits being shipped here this week.

Head lettuce took a price tumble this week, dropping from $1 75 to $2 a case, which brings the retail price down to a normal 10 cents again And butter lettuce is available again

Escarole, touted as a beauty aid because of its high vitamin content, is almost as popular as lettuce and curley endive.

A new crop of beets, turnips and carrots is on the market. Asparagus climbed in price this week, because of the cold, but merchants believe the warm weather and warm rains this week will soon bring it back to normal.

Everything that goes into the making of a 'spring salad"—cucumbers, radishes, new cabbage, peppers, green onions, romaine, watercress—is available now.

And there's no dearth of green vegetables for cooking—spinach, kale, cauliflower, egg plant, squash, limas, green peas and okra

AIDS CHINESE

Britain Furnishes More War Aid Than U. S. to Japan.

TOKYO —(INS)— Japan's anti-Comintern fans shocked to learn that their ally, Germany, has led the world in arms shipments to China were restored in faith today with knowledge that Great Britain has since passed Germany in this field The United States was far down on the list of nations exporting war materials to Nippon's foes

GLUE IN AUTO TANK

CINCINNATI, O —(U P)—A new candidate for the title of the "world's meanest man" was discovered here when James Louis 29, colored, was sentenced to serve 10 days in the workhouse for pouring glue into the gasoline tank of a neighbor's automobile.

Reason Instead of Rod Urged For Use On Children

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— More frequent use of reason rather than the rod as a successful corrective method for children is advocated by Dr James J Waygood, neurologist at Temple University Medical school here.

"The old-fashioned woodshed technique is the worst possible method The parent should make some attempt to understand the child's motive Sound reasoning is more effective than the razor strop or hair brush,' he said

From a psychological standpoint, spanking a child insults his intelligence, the neurologist added, and each blow steals a portion of his self-assurance The doctor also believes parents should take their children into their confidence when they are 4 years old. All questions should be answered honestly.

A father of four children, Dr. Waygood said he practices what he preaches.
